PERSONALITY

1. Kathy Adams, Cindy Mosley, and Cathy Vinzant relax during Dixie Week 2. Laura Hollis gets the Phi Mu's excited about rush 3. A smiling face is never hard to find at Ole Miss 4. Shrimp and beer always brings out the best in people 5. Laurie Douglas — a part of the natural beauty of Ole Miss 6. Ole Miss allows you to do what you do best 7. String Burns gets strung out.

When a person reflects upon his past experiences at his Alma Mater, he perceives the myriad of personalities that made his college years full of excitement, involvement, achievement, and friendship.

The excitement of returning in the fall along with the anticipation and fascination of Rush, captivates campus life and represents the unique camaraderie among the Greek organizations.

Picnics in the Grove, the Rebels playing Vandy, and the all day – all night partying can only mean one thing – Homecoming! And Homecoming is the perfect example of the loyal, die-hard partying reputation of Ole Miss.

Banners hung at the Union, rallies at the dorms, nametags and flyers, smiling coeds holding signs, and the all-too-familiar "Have you voted yet?" exemplify the political personality of Ole Miss. Campus elections, from Homecoming Queen to ASB President, show the dedication and diligence of students and bring an inner conviction that whoever wins must represent Ole Miss to the best of his or her ability.

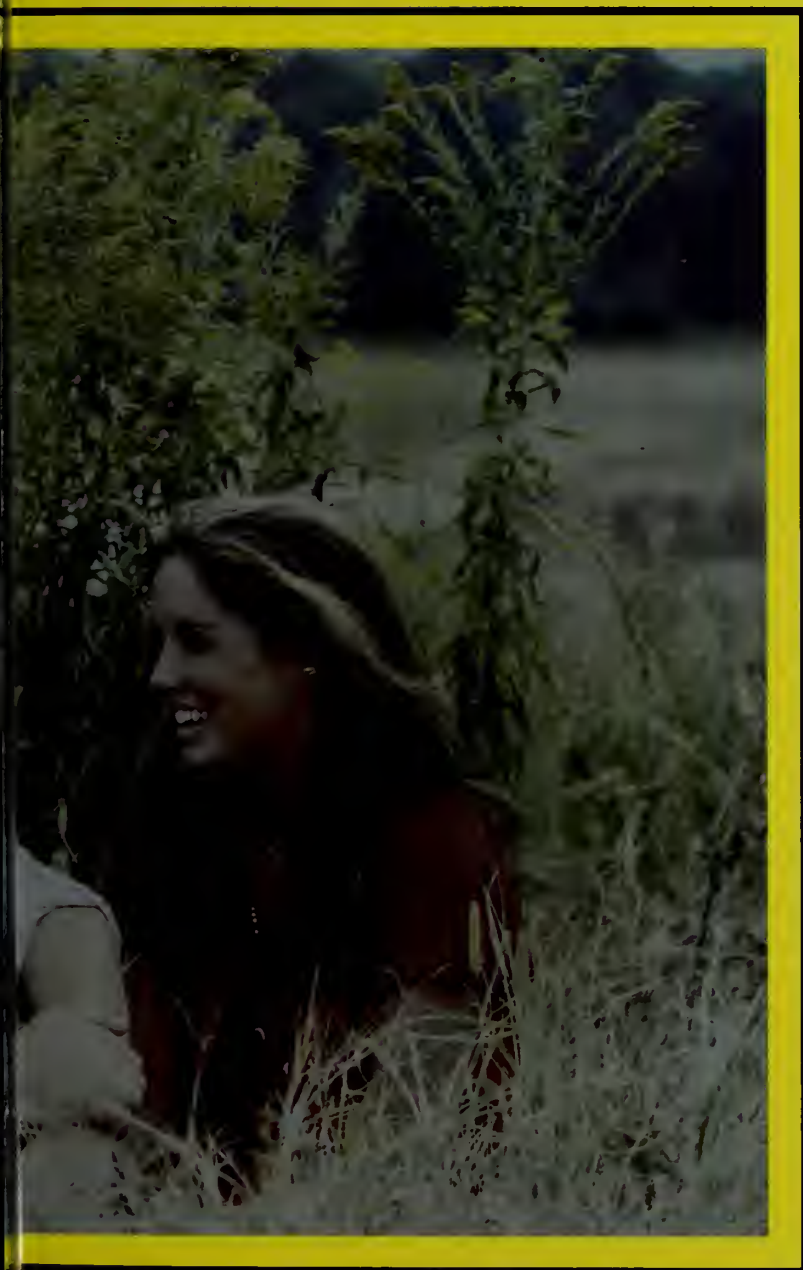

All of these aspects of Ole Miss constitute a vivacious, friendly and spirited personality – a personality that conveys Ole Miss as a place for everyone.

 BEAUTY

The campus is picturesque, regardless of the season. Situated amidst the stately buildings are majestic oaks, magnolias, and dogwoods. Standing tall among the azalias and tulips, these trees lend beauty to the campus. Famous for beautiful coeds, Ole Miss seems to be the home of southern belles. Above all, the aesthetic beauty of the Lyceum stands as a landmark to all who becomes a part of the campus we call Ole Miss.

HOSPITALITY

Mississippi, renowned as the Hospitality State, has always taken pride in the University of Mississippi. When it comes to making new friends, there is no better surroundings than the warm, friendly atmosphere of Ole Miss. Freshmen quickly become a part of the friendly smiles and faces for which this school is famous. Whether it is walking to class, meeting friends at Happy Hour, or cheering for the Rebels, you'll always see a familiar face and the welcoming smile of an Ole Miss student. Ole Miss is the epitome of hospitality.

RELAXATION

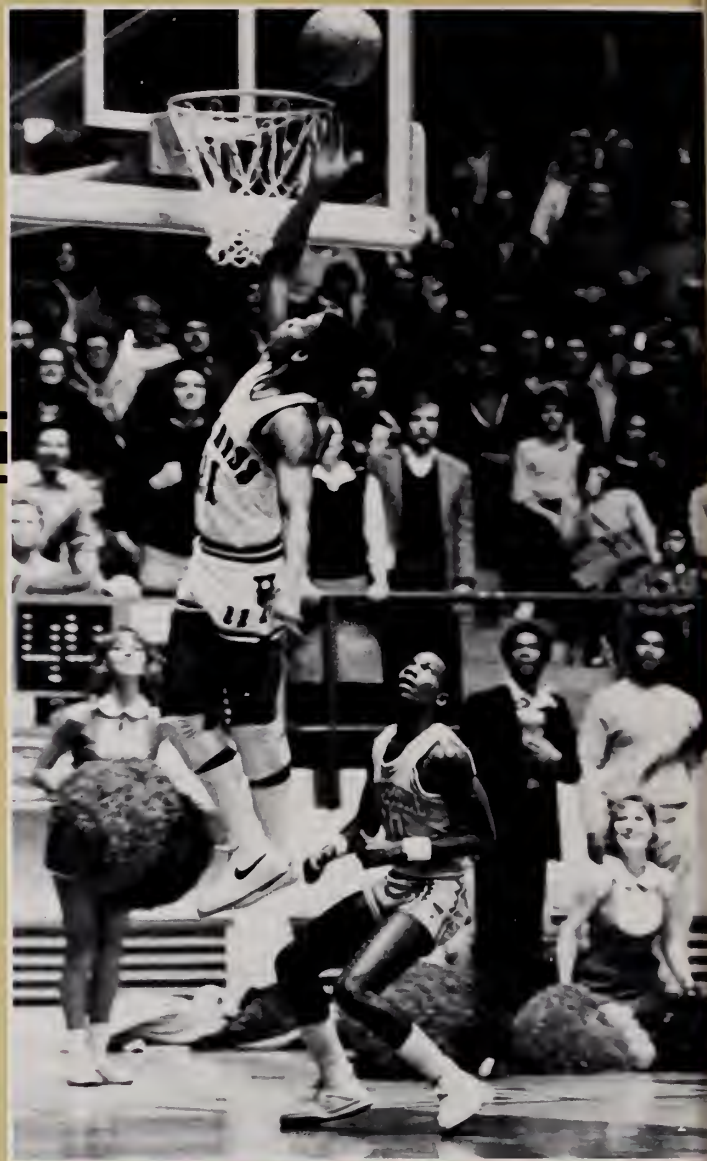

When it's time to relax after a hard week of tests, meetings, and eight o'clock classes, for most Ole Miss students there is only one solution — cruisin' to Pete's One Stop for a cold beer and then on to Sardis in a Jeep filled with friends. On those gorgeous sun-drenched afternoons when the temperature is 79° and it's only Wednesday, you just have to take time off from that accounting book to play in the sun. Throwing the frisbee, playing tennis, biking down frat row to Baskin Robbins, jogging across campus, or just talking with an old friend makes that accounting problem a little less difficult. And, somehow, the weekend seems to come a little bit sooner!

 EXCELLENCE

Academic excellence along with a qualified faculty have made Ole Miss a nationally acclaimed university. The faculty demands high academic standards thus allowing their students to excel in their perspective careers. The Ole Miss Cheerleaders have been nationally ranked for the past three years, our Center for the Study of Southern Culture is internationally recognized, the men's basketball team were 1981 SEC Tournament Champions, and John Fourcade, four years ago a heralded freshman, matured to be one of the greatest quarterbacks in Ole Miss history. Through the determined efforts of its students, Ole Miss maintains perfection in all areas of college life.

1. The Ole Miss Cheerleaders lead a Hemingway crowd in a rousing Hotty Toddy. 2. Cecil Dowell scores two! 3. 1981-1982 campus leaders are sworn in. 4. Lab time AGAIN! 5. Colonel Reb, a true Southern gentleman. 6. Quarterback John Fourcade directs the Rebel offense.

TRADITION

Ole Miss was founded as a conservative, high standard university and today stands on the grounds of tradition. Pep rallies at the Peabody, Confederate flags at football games, Dixie Week, and "Hotty Toddy" are rich traditions in the Ole Miss heritage. Every year, beautiful coeds stroll through the campus, alumni reminisce over a tailgate picnic and students cut class for away ballgames. As in years past, Miss Mississippi is an Ole Miss student, the state governor is an alumnus, and a Rebel team won an SEC championship. The Lyceum still stands after facing everything from a civil war to a civil rights march. Tradition is the determining factor that brings generation after generation back to Ole Miss.

Through past experiences everyone who enrolls as a student of the University forms an opinion of what Ole Miss means to them as an individual. For some, generation after generation of family members have become a part of the tradition for which Ole Miss is famous, and the decision as to which university to attend was an easy one because there is really only one University. However, many students are the first of their families to enjoy the pride and heritage that so many have already benefitted from.

For everyone the years at college are times of maturing, learning and sharing. Students mature outwardly and inwardly with the personal experiences that each encounters. The learning process helps individuals to find themselves and to evaluate themselves in terms of the society as a whole. Shared experiences make friendships stronger and more dear. Without common bonds friendship would be a word — not a feeling. Students enter the University as naive freshmen, but hopefully leave enriched by the Excitement, Involvement, and Friendships that made their years here special!

"... The University is respected, but Ole Miss is loved. For anyone without that love it does not exist. The University is geographical, but Ole Miss is universal. There are many universities but there is only one Ole Miss. What then is Ole Miss? ..."

Becoming an Ole Miss Preppie

Before Richie Reid and Mae Jewel Greene had time to fully recover from the high school graduation parties, they found themselves packing up for their entrance into the real world — the world of Ole Miss.

First on Richie's agenda was a visit to Duvall's to buy a new three-piece polyester disco suit. The shock was almost too much for him when the clerk told him polyester was definitely OUT, and had long since been replaced by heavy tweeds and corduroys. To make matters worse, the green and pink plaid pants he tried on wouldn't fit over his favorite, well-scuffed cowboy boots.

Meanwhile, Mae Jewel was equally horrified when the girl across the hall in the dorm told her that the natural look was as faded out as her favorite bell-bottom jeans. Skirts were in, and to wear those straight wool skirts, Mae Jewel had to shave her legs even in the fall. She tearfully told her mother that the mail order jewelry just wouldn't cut it any longer.

After spending their entire yearly allowance during their brief shopping spree, the two freshmen had to call Mummy and Daddy collect to ask for more cash to last them the rest of the week.

Richie's friends wouldn't have known the new Richard Hunter Reid, III, or "Tripp," as he was affectionately called by his nightly dates and fraternity brothers. Quickly he acquired the stylish image of the strutting Ole Miss male.

The change in Mae Jewel seemed to happen overnight, thanks to sleeping in curlers and smearing on coats of cold cream. Now her close friends would just have to call her "Mimi." Confidently walking down the sidewalk in her new clothes and new image, Mimi concentrated on her next goal, getting the drop from that special guy Tripp Reid. A drop was just what she needed to wear with her add-a-bead, subtract-a-bead, twirl-a-bead, and dangle-a-bead necklaces to add the finishing touch to her new preppy image.

The Ole Miss Blind Date

The generosity of big brothers and big sisters has led to yet another Ole Miss tradition, the blind date. Although everyone vows never to fall into the trap again, they always give in to the temptation, thinking maybe this one time it will work out.

First comes the phone call. Roommates and a few beers work together to give him the courage to call. After all, what can one phone call hurt?

Although mildly interested, she hesitates to answer yes right away when he asks her out. She doesn't want to appear too eager, plus she remembers her blind date to the football game two weeks ago. She vowed then to never go along with another blind date regardless of how good her friends made him sound. Friends' promises that this time she really will like him sound vaguely like what she heard before, but she weakens and agrees. After all, it's only one date.

The big weekend comes. He has it all planned. Borrowing a friend's sports car to impress her, he spins into the dorm parking lot just a few minutes late, but he's planned ahead and has brought flowers to make up for his tardiness.

For exercise, they head to the bowling alley. Not only is it a novel idea, she agrees, but she doesn't have to worry about running into any friends.

Dinner follows at a quaint little place he discovered on campus. The cafeteria not only offers great atmosphere and unique meals at a low price, but there are no long, noisy lines to wait in and there never is a fight to find a clean table.

Fortunately, all blind dates do end. After awkward goodbyes, (his trying to kiss her... if... she'd... just... hold still) the couple go their separate ways; he heads back to the dorm to change clothes and return the borrowed car, and she upstairs to vow once again never to agree to another BLIND DATE!

ISSUES THAT MADE HEADLINES BOTH LOCALLY and NATIONALLY

A year has gone by but while the passing of a year is not newsworthy, this past year will be remembered by historians a long time from now.

Perhaps the most significant thing is that despite the number of assassinations and assassination attempts, the United States remained at peace. The past year saw the assassination attempts directed at Pope John Paul II and President Ronald Reagan. Anwar Sadat was assassinated as he watched a military review. Iranian president Bani Sadr was ousted, and Mohammed Ali Rajai, who had been president for 27 days was killed in a bomb explosion along with the new prime minister, Mohammad Jarad Bahonar.

Celebrities who died during the year included actress Natalie Wood, actor Jack Albertson and comedian John Belushi. Former Beatle John Lennon was killed outside his apartment by a man who had gotten his autograph just hours before.

The news of the royal wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Dianna Spencer captured the attention of millions of people world-wide. Ole Miss students celebrated another wedding as they cut afternoon classes to watch the wedding of their favorite soap opera characters, Luke and Laura on General Hospital.

Television personality Walter Cronkite no longer anchored the evening news for CBS. An American scientific breakthrough was publicized when the first test-tube baby was born in America, and the spaceship Columbia made three flights.

Americans and the world watched as our technology went into space again with the second launching of the space shuttle Columbia, and the first woman to be nominated as a Supreme Court Judge, Sandra Day O'Connor was approved.

Air traffic controllers remained on strike in the U.S., and Poland suffered its first strike as the Solidarity Labor Union gained support and key concessions from the communist government.

Ole Miss boasted about former graduate Larry Speakes who became presidential press secretary after Jim Brady was shot during the attempt on Reagan's life.

Ole Miss' reputation for beauties gained national recognition as Ole Miss coed Karen Hopson competed as Miss Mississippi in the Miss America pageant, and the fall issue of PLAYBOY featured two Ole Miss coeds. One of the coeds was in fact a stripper from Memphis who enrolled in the University but never attended classes.

Many changes were implemented on the campus, beginning with Chancellor Porter Fortune's decision to create the positions of vice chancellors. Meanwhile, the College Board of Trustees decided to cut out duplicate programs at state universities. Ole Miss will now concentrate on art, law, literature, foreign languages, mathematics, physical sciences, pharmacy, public affairs, community and regional planning and social science programs.

Postal stamps were increased to 18 cents and then to 20 cents during the year, and for the first time in history, the U.S. government had to shut down and lay off non-essential employees because the government ran out of money.

Ole Miss students enthusiastically welcomed Mr. Gattis and Dominoe's Pizza and looked forward to the completion of the athletic complex. The Kappa Alpha Theta sorority house was also completed this year.

new leadership and with new goals. With the new image of Southern Sun Concerts, the committee offered numerous free concerts this fall, as well as Charlie Daniels.

Ole Miss students and alumni alike expressed their opinions on the rule banning umbrellas from stadiums and the closing-off of the Circle to parking. But, one of the things students were most vocal about was the enforcement of parking regulations and early morning ticketing practices by the UPD.

Coors came to the state, and the four-lane highway through Batesville was finally completed. The ASB offered Dial-a-vent services, proposed a merger with the Black Student Union, and a change in cheerleader election policy. The Union Program Council included in its fall movie schedule the first X-rated movie to be shown here, "The Nine Lives of Fritz the Cat," but after a preview, council members decided not to show it. Sportswise, Mohammed Ali attempted another comeback, but was unanimously defeated.

Despite all the changes around them, Ole Miss students maintained their traditional activities — walks in the Grove, study break trips to Baskin-Robbins, waiting in line to xerox notes before exams, jogging, waiting to buy books in the bookstore, and complaining about the new policy of sending midterm grades to parents instead of students.

THE NUMBERS GAME

An Id number and the number of unpaid tickets issued by the friendly University Police Department are often the only two numbers an Ole Miss student remembers from semester to semester at Ole Miss, but believe it or not, there are other interesting numbers.

For example, last year, the average ACT composite score for freshmen desiring four years of engineering school was 24.40. Incoming pharmacy majors had composite averages of 22.17, and accounting majors scores of 21.50. Liberal arts students averaged 19.85 while those entering the B-School made 19.78 and education majors 19.12.

Ole Miss freshmen from North Mississippi numbered 531; the central counties of the state were represented by 323, and there were 137 freshmen from the Gulf Coast. However, freshman enrollment was on the decrease — there were 1,077 in 1979 and 991 in 1980.

Fifty-five percent of the incoming freshmen said they chose Ole Miss not for its "country club of the south" reputation, but rather because of the courses offered here. Fifteen percent said the location was the deciding factor; ten percent said the tuition was most important, nine percent because of the type of school the university is, while eight percent chose to come to Ole Miss because of its "other activities." Four percent made their decision on the basis of the student body composition and one percent on the basis of the size of enrollment.

Twenty-four percent of the incoming freshmen entered the B-School with visions of careers in top managerial or accounting positions. Twenty-one percent of the freshmen wanted a career in the health professions; ten percent a career in the social sciences, and eight percent were undecided. (This survey did not include the MRS. degree program, so the percentage of undecided students may not be accurate.) Five percent came to Ole Miss to seek a degree in fine or applied arts, four percent in communications; three percent in computer and information sciences, and only one percent were interested in forestry, agriculture, general studies, trade, industrial and technology, community service, math, physical sciences, humanities and home economics.

Total enrollment last year was 9,607. Liberal Arts enrolled 2,872 undergraduates last year; business and accounting accounted for 2,864 students; education kept 1,055 busy; there were 640 in engineering and 421 in pharmacy.

The Law School enrolled the largest number of graduate students, however, which amounted to 559 prospective lawyers. Three hundred, seventy-six were enrolled in education; 373 in liberal arts, and 133 in business and accounting.

In 1965, Ole Miss boasted of an enrollment of 5,488 students. The enrollment has grown since that time, reaching 9,635 in 1976, but is expected to fall off to 8,633 by 1985.

Eighty-one percent of the Ole Miss faculty is on a nine-month contract, and 53 percent are tenured. The faculty is racially composed of 97 percent white, one percent black and one percent Asian-Pacific Islander.

The average salary in 1970 for an associate professor was $14,100, but professors reported an average salary last year of $23,400. Full professors were paid $16,100 in 1970 compared to $29,250 for an annual average salary last year.

Most Ole Miss students wonder what the University does with all the money students dish out yearly. 42 cents of each dollar went to instruction last year, 14 cents to academic support, 11 cents to scholarships and fellowships, 10 cents to the physical plant, nine cents for institutional support, eight cents for research, five cents for student services and one cent for public services.

The University — A Look at the Past

The University of Mississippi has provided the people of its State, the South and the Nation a good educational facility for more than 130 years. The history of the University is quite a story.

The Mississippi Legislature convened on January 26, 1841, and was faced with the decision of the site of the State's first institution of higher learning. Seven cities were in contention for the location of the University of Mississippi. One by one the city receiving the lowest vote was eliminated. In this manner, Oxford was selected.

Chartered on February 24, 1844, the University began to take form as the cornerstone of the Lyceum was laid with appropriate ceremonies on July 14, 1846. This was the first building on any State campus in Mississippi. It still stands today as a majestic symbol of the University. The total cost of the structure was $220,798. The Lyceum and the next oldest building, the "Y" were used as hospitals by both the Confederate and Union Armies during the Civil War.

The University opened its doors November 6, 1848, to receive its first student body of 80 young Mississippians. The faculty consisted of only four instructors. A general curriculum in Liberal Arts was the only instruction offered. A School of Law was opened in 1854, but all functions of the University were terminated because of the threat of the oncoming Civil War. After reopening in 1865, Ole Miss enrolled its first women students in 1882. In 1885 citizens of Mississippi saw the first female faculty member employed by the University, and four women receive degrees from the University of Mississippi.

The first annual was published in 1897. The name "OLE MISS" came about when Miss Elma Meek Coleman of Oxford, then a student of the University, won the contest to choose a suitable title for the publication. Gradually, the yearbook title became a synonym for the University itself and for educational quality.

Due to the outbreaks following the traditional rivalry between Ole Miss and Mississippi State, the Egg Bowl was established in 1901. With a 21-17 victory in Jackson this year the record now stands as 44 victories for the Rebels to a mere 28 wins for the Bulldogs. There have also been 6 ties.

The Schools of Education and Medicine were established in 1903. 1908 brought about the formation of the School of Pharmacy. The School of Commerce and Business Administration dates back to 1917, and the Graduate School came into existence ten years later.

1925 is an important year in the history of the University because The Pride of the South marching band began performing before Rebel fans at the halftimes of the exciting sports contests. Also, Mrs. A. W. Kahle composed the lyrics for the University of Mississippi Alma Mater later in the year.

The ASB has governed student activities on campus for years, but only one female, Marilyn Howell in 1944 has been chosen as president of the organization.

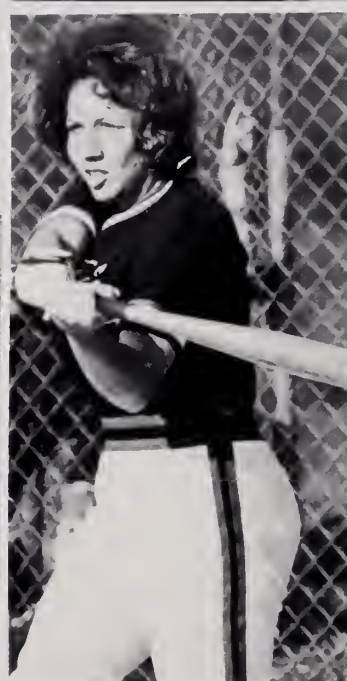

The University Medical Center, established in Jackson in 1955, includes the School of Medicine, School of Nursing, Teaching Hospital, Division of Graduate Studies in the Medical Sciences and the School of Dentistry which admitted its first class in 1975.

The University of Mississippi takes pride in the fact that it has the only daily student published newspaper in the state. The Daily Mississippian is renowned for its professionalism.

Graduates of Ole Miss have distinguished themselves in every profession, faculty members have authored hundreds of books and scholarly articles, and researchers at the Medical Center developed the first electrical current anesthesia and performed the first successful heart transplant. The ongoing marijuana research brings favorable publicity to the University. Ole Miss alumni have set a record with the highest percentage of dues-paying alumni of any public supported college or university in the nation.

The tradition of outstanding accomplishments by faculty and graduates has given the University of Mississippi its universal reputation of quality. Thanks to these accomplishments students can take advantage of the degree of excellence the University provides in educational and social aspects of college life. Faculty, alumni and present day students can be proud to be a part of the tradition of Ole Miss, but more importantly they can be proud that Ole Miss tradition has become a part of them.

Ole Miss is People

Alumni, faculty, and students are all a vital part of Ole Miss. When reflecting upon their stay at Ole Miss, many alumni simply say "Those were the good ole days." Their Alma Mater is a place where memories were made and are now and forever cherished. The faculty of the University of Mississippi guide students to become the best they can be, and in many instances the student-teacher relationship is a friendship that is beneficial to both. The student can take pride in his accomplishments, and at the same time the professor can be proud to be a part of that learning experience. At the heart of the Ole Miss society are the students. Away from the security of home, students must now seek their niche in the Ole Miss society.

Many students find spare time to become involved in various organizations on campus. From the Greek organizations to intramural sports Ole Miss offers many opportunities for fun and excitement. The excitement of running for a position in campus politics is the path many students choose while attending the University. With the help of friends the hard work becomes fun, exciting, and rewarding. The friendships made during our tenure here are probably the most memorable aspect of college life.

Without the alumni, faculty, and students Ole Miss would not exist. People are the Excitement, Involvement, and Friendships that make the University of Mississippi — OLE MISS.

*Welcome to Ole Miss,
Country Club of the South*

At Ole Miss there is always something fun to do. Whether it's participating as a contestant in the Parade of Beauties or going to a Charlie Daniels concert, students can be found having a good time. Each semester the University provides opportunities for students to get together and relax.

Dixie Week, Fall Festival, and Greek Week are really just excuses for students to forget the books for a while and enjoy the Ole Miss atmosphere. On the lighter side of college are the humorous experiences that all of us have had. The times when we got together and "goobed out" will never be forgotten or replaced. Students have the opportunity to see their friends compete for the titles of the pageants held annually. The thrill of being crowned Most Beautiful or Miss University is a dream come true for some coeds. These unique happenings help to build and strengthen the memories of our Alma Mater.

A 70 percent forecast of rain had members of the Union Program Council crossing their fingers in hopes of preventing rain. It must have worked because the barbeque became one of the most successful ever.

Opening the year's activities with Fall Festival, the UPC entertained students with an exhibition by Dr. John's Champion Frisbee Disc Team, games in the grove, and the bluegrass music of the Jessey Higdon Band.

"We had an excellent turnout despite the weather," said Bill Garner, chairman of the event. More than 2,000 students participated in front of the Union with 1,200 buying tickets for the barbeque.

Fall Festival

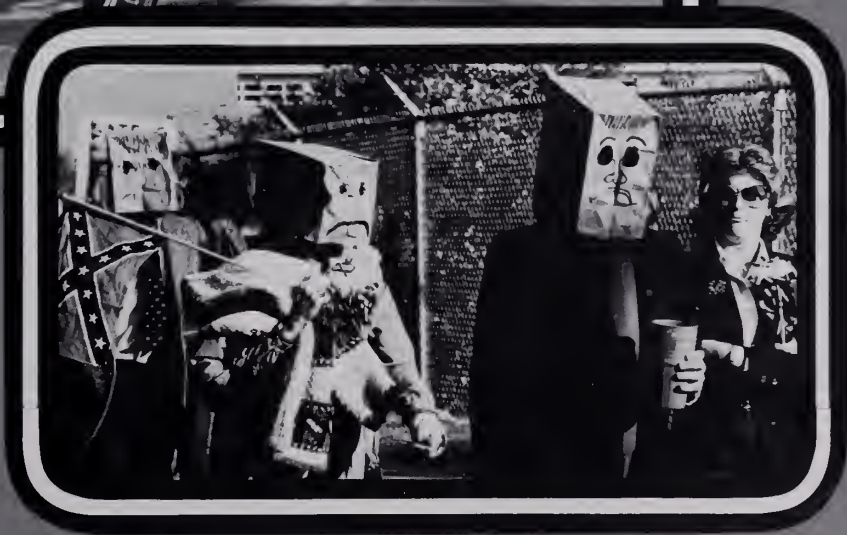

The entire family of Ole Miss comes home only once a year in October, renewing friendships, reliving memories and touring campus to view traditional crepe papered homecoming floats at dorms and fraternity and sorority houses. The hours of planning, designing and building that residents of Kincannon spent on their float did not go unnoticed, as the dorm's float was chosen best overall in the competition.

After lunch, students, prospective students and alumni enthusiastically gathered at Hemmingway Stadium for homecoming. Vanderbilt had the upper hand on the football field, but after the crowning of Phi Mu Lib Wight as queen and the presentation of the court, the Ole Miss spirit soared, and the Rebels fought back in the second half, coming within four points of tying the game. The final score was sadly in favor of Vanderbilt, 27-23. After the humiliating loss, many students and alumni urged the Athletic Department to evaluate the coaching staff.

But, by evening, lively homecoming parties reminded us that whether the football team won or lost, or whether we approved of the coaching staff, we all shared the common bond of belonging to the largest family in the state, the family of Ole Miss.

Homecoming

Dixie Week has traditionally been a time for students to put down those books and live a life of fun and leisure for seven straight days. The spring of 1981 was no exception.

The week was packed with activities geared to get students in the sun and rid of winter-white skin. The RHA ice cream social, a four-mile SAC run, tee-shirts with ten words for vomiting, and a concert in the Grove featuring "The Toons," all led up to the annual climax of Shrimp and Beer.

Rumors were spreading that Sardis Reservoir had banned the event from their premises because of its contagious, unruly atmosphere, but the ASB again came through with another successful party. The location was changed to the other side of the lake to include tons of shrimp and hundreds of kegs of beer.

Dixie Week

Artist Series

The 1981 Artist Series opened its program of entertainment with the dazzle of Scottish pipes, drums and British regalia of the Coldstream Guards and the Royal Scots Dragoon Guards that performed in the Coliseum.

The Guards and Dragoons were followed by the November performance of the internationally known Westminster Choir, a choir commissioned by three presidents to represent America in world-wide tours.

Continuing the series of entertaining musical events was a professional production of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," the timeless story of Scrooge.

Opening the 1982 season on a high note, was the performance of soprano June Anderson of the New York City Opera, and in February the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra and cellist Leonard Rose appeared at Ole Miss on their nation-wide tour.

Becky Bush added "Miss University" to her impressive list of accomplishments this spring. Runners-up included Ann Phillips, first alternate; Billie Black, second alternate; Shavonne Rhodes, third alternate; and Lisa Clark, fourth alternate.

Bill Wheelless served as emcee for the program, and also sang during the contest. Also entertaining the audience were Wendy Shumake, Miss University 1980, Donna Pope, Miss Mississippi 1981. Shumake sang, and Pope did a toe dance to "Oklahoma."

Every semester students arrive on campus in cars loaded with life's necessities that will be used to transform empty dorm rooms into students' homes. Rooms fill with the thud of heavy suitcases hitting the floor, doors banging and friends hollering greetings. Nights bring studying, homework, floor meetings, discussions of intramural teams, parties, and attempts to ignore noisy neighbors. In a dorm, a friend to talk to is only a door away, and a list of dorm-sponsored activities as close as the nearest bulletin board.

Martha Moore of Tupelo was crowned Most Beautiful of 1982 in the annual Parade of Beauties pageant held in December. Tim Pruitt, brother of Miss America Cheryl Pruitt, emceed the pageant as well as entertained with singing and guitar playing. Other former title winners, Becky Bush (Most Beautiful 1980); and Debbie Tullos (Most Beautiful 1981), also entertained.

Other winners were Daphne Park, first runner-up; Kathy Manning, second runner-up; Sherry Hales, third runner-up; and Anne Phillips, fourth runner-up.

Parade of Beauties

The Greek spirit prevailed at Ole Miss the last week of March for the annual Greek Week celebration.

Highlighting the week were games in the Grove in which members of Greek organizations competed in such things as three-legged races, tug-of-wars and skateboard competition. Also notable during the week was the prayer breakfast and leadership workshops.

The crowning of the Greek God and Goddess ended the festivities. Selected as Greek God was ATO David Abraham, and Renee' Dodd, a Pi Phi, was chosen 1981 Greek Goddess.

Greek Week

Concerts

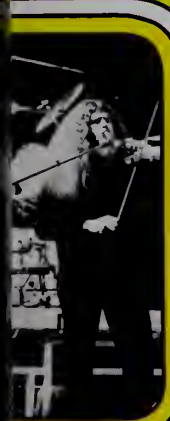

The ASB Concert Commission finished its 1981 season with the rock sounds of Kansas complete with laser light show. The usual student apathy toward concerts was apparently absent because Tad Smith Coliseum was full of true rock fans.

Changing its name to Southern Sun Concerts for a more professional image, the Commission opened the Fall season with a string of concerts; about two a month. None of these were in the coliseum, but were well attended in the Grove or Fulton Chapel.

Classes had barely begun when Keith Sykes performed his folk-rock in Fulton and was soon followed by Michael Murphy, made famous by his hit "Wildfire."

The Neville Brothers of New Orleans manipulated their audience into a frenzy of excitement, entertaining with the soul and funk revived in the Eighties.

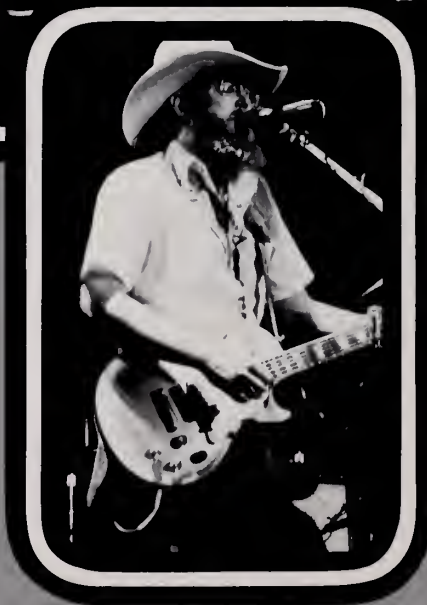

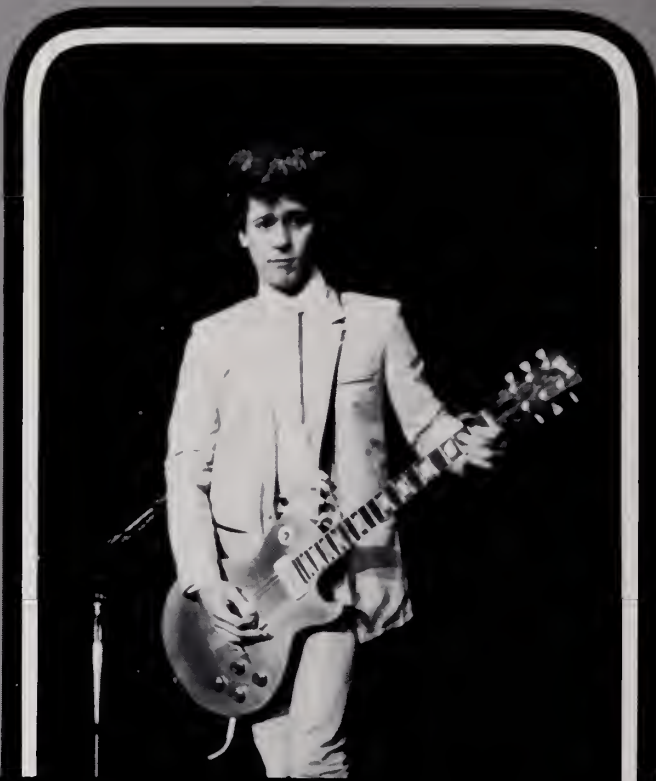

Concerts

The Tad Smith Coliseum was transformed into a western arena as Ole Miss' cowboys and cowgirls brought out their boots and cowboy hats for the Charlie Daniels Band and Ozark Mountain Daredevils.

The winner of more than a dozen music awards including a Grammy, Daniels received vocal support from concertgoers as the band played favorite foot stompin' "Sweet Home Alabama," "The Legend of Wooley Swamp," and "Mississippi."

Those who arrived early found that their front row seats were no longer an advantage as the crowd filled the empty space between the front row and the wooden stage barrier.

The New Wave music of the Romantics, staged in Fulton Chapel, kept the capacity crowd dancing in the aisles and in front of the stage the entire evening. Many students dressed in New Wave and punk fashions for the concert, which was the first New Wave concert to be brought to Ole Miss.

Speakers

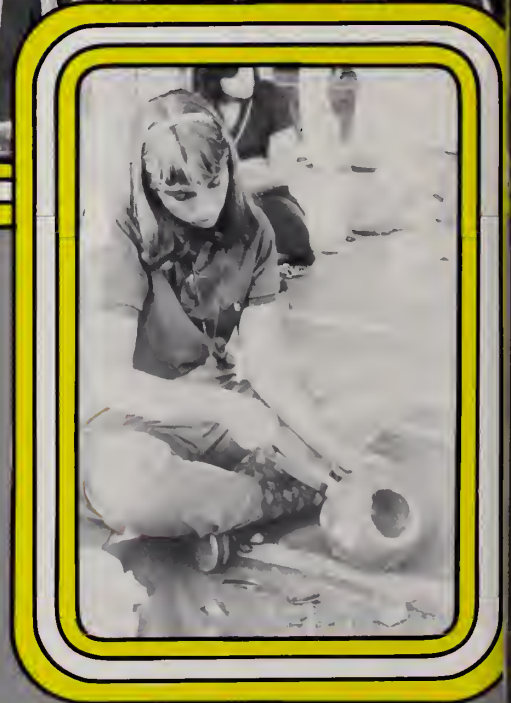

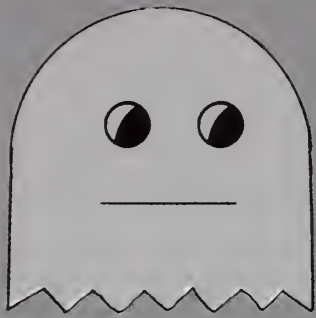

Ole Miss students were exposed to many views and discussions through organizations with speakers programs, in particular, the ASB Concert Commission, ODK-Mortar Board, and the Union Program Council.

Vincent Bugliosi, (below left) the prosecuting attorney in the Charles Manson murder trials in California, was the UPC's contribution to the speaker series. Speaking last spring in Fulton Chapel, Bugliosi explained the unusual case and said he still can't understand why the case holds such interest among college age students who weren't old enough to remember it when it happened.

"Meet the Press" moderator Bill Monroe's (left) visit was sponsored by ODK-Mortar Board Speaker's Forum this fall, and he discussed aspects of President Ronald Reagan's foreign policy and the country's national defense.

The ASB Concert Commission brought comedian Tom Parks (below right) to the Ole Miss campus. Parks, who performed in the Union Ballroom, travels the campus circuit adapting his jokes to the environment and history of each school.

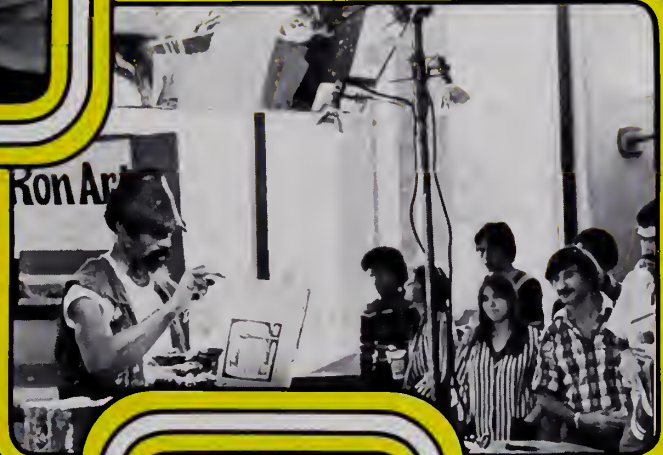

Union

A whirl of Union Program Council sponsored activities welcomed Ole Miss students back this fall. September saw a return of Dr. John's Championship Frisbee Disc Show, a front porch performance by singer Barry Drake, and several movies.

William Faulkner returned to the Ole Miss campus through John Maxwell's one-man play of the famous author's life. October was also the month for the UPC's Coronation of Miss Ebony, a performance by the acrobatic group Locomotion Vaudeville, Halloween movies and the annual pumpkin carving contest.

Poetry contests and game tournaments, a sneak preview of the Ole Miss basketball team, the craft fair and christmas tree lighting were just a few of the other UPC sponsored programs for the fall semester. The UPC also brought General Louis H. Wilson, former member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor to Ole Miss as a speaker for the semester.

Miss Ebony

Connie Thompson, a junior from Oxford, was chosen Miss Ebony October 27 in the fifth annual ASB-sponsored pageant. Judged on the basis of poise, beauty and personality in the categories of swimsuit, talent and formal wear, the winner was chosen from a field of over ten contestants. Qualified as a contestant in the spring Miss University pageant, Miss Ebony's duties include serving as official hostess during Black History month at Ole Miss. Other runners-up included Betty Balfour (first alternate) and Delphine Rice (second alternate).

Best Dressed

Selected as "Best Dressed" for 1982 was Sherron Smith, a twenty year-old business major from Corinth. Contestants were judged by a panel of photographers, models and clothing merchants from the state. Top ten co-eds were (from left) Sherron Smith, Pamela Short, Kim Mosely, Lucy Lord, Sherry Hales, Susan Hutt, Mary Susan Gallien, Joan Gallbraith, Renee Dodd, and Paige Boyd.

Theatre

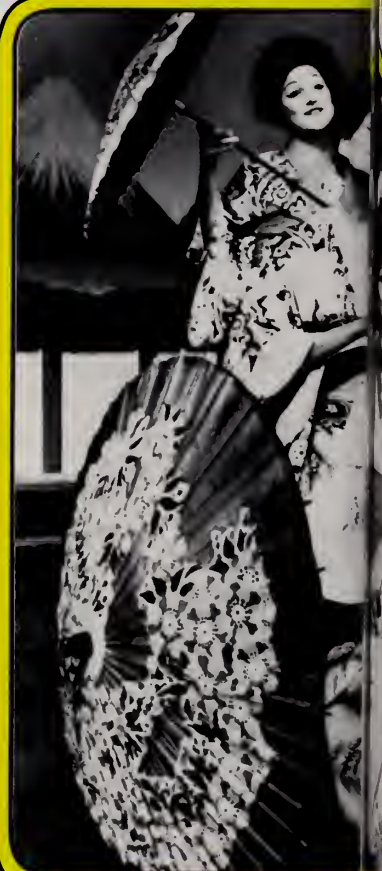

The University Theatre department offered summer students horror, humor, and harmony in 1981.

Opening the summer season with "Dracula," a group of 10 actors and actresses were selected through auditions to form a nucleus company for Summer Showcase productions.

Dracula, the gothic tale about a night-stalking vampire, was chosen "because it's entertaining, scary, and fun," said Dr. Donald McBryde, professor of theatre arts and director of the production. "We used several special effects and played it very straight-forward — not at all for laughs, so the audience felt plenty of chills."

"The Mikado," a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta set in the exotic Orient, used authentic costuming, scenery, and the highly stylized make-up used in the ancient Kibuki theatre. The comedic plot featured a Japanese emperor who decrees that anyone caught flirting will be beheaded.

"The Fantastiks," the longest running musical in off-Broadway history, entertained students and Oxonians with a story about two fathers who try to get their children to marry one another by using reverse psychology.

Theatre

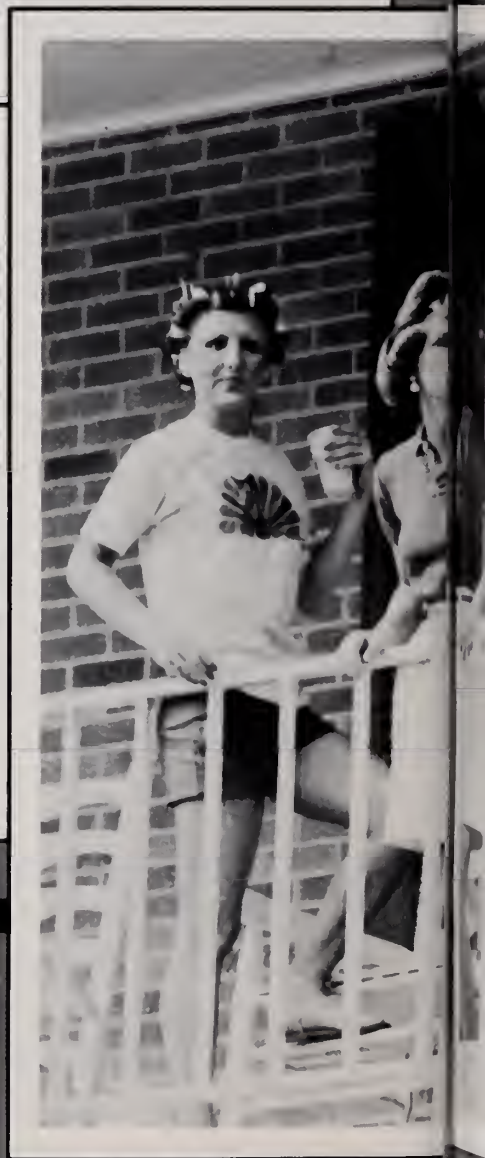

Opening the 1981-82 Theatre Series in September was Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie," a play about a southern family's faded, fragile illusions, which was followed by the Oct. 6 rollicking portrait of a lecherous rogue who masquerades as an example of religious piety in Moliere's "Tartuffe."

"A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," was staged for Homecoming, and was a joint production of the Music and Theatre Arts Departments. Ole Miss students and alumni turned out for the production after the afternoon's football game for what play director, Dr. Larry Kadlec called, "... a rousing evening of good belly-laughs."

The third production of the season was "Death of a Salesman," Arthur Miller's portrait of an aging traveling salesman whose humor and problems strike a chord with audiences everywhere.

PEOPLE

EATERS

College Republican Chairman Mark Mead grins foolishly as he's caught demonstrating a sure fire way to avoid late night munchies. Mead said the object is to "... get as much food on you as possible so you can snack later." Reportedly Mead's new form of eating has cut down tremendously on his food bill. When asked how he originated his new style of eating, Mead replied "it just seemed to come naturally for me." The new style does have it's drawbacks however. While Mead's food bill has dwindled, his cleaning bills have sky-rocketed to a ridiculous level.

ACHIEVERS

The weekly event begins at Ole Miss as students race once again to be among the first hundred to sign up for an interview at the placement office in the Lyceum. When interviewing the placement officials as to the fairness of a first-come-first-serve basis rather than a qualification basis, the officials simply remarked "that's life in the fast lane."

BEAUTIES

Last year's Best Dressed coed Kathy Manning reveals her wellkept beauty secrets, the most important of which is the Manning mud pack. According to Manning, Delta mud is "desirable" but unfortunately scarce at Ole Miss.

SWINGERS

Senior Warfield Williams, determined to achieve the image of a "swinging" Ole Miss student one way or another before he graduates, finds that life is looking up for him. Always in a cheery mood, Williams said that he's learned to cope with the ups and downs of Ole Miss social life by remaining young at heart.

DATING

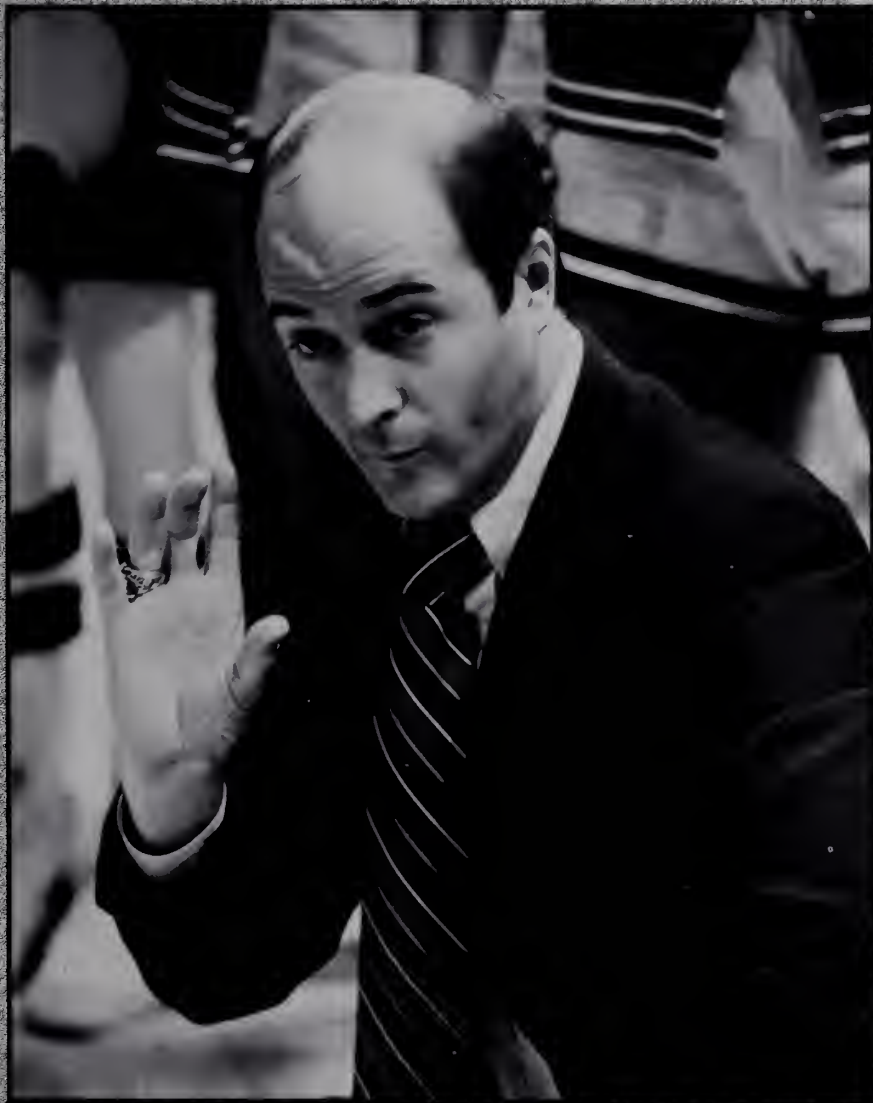

A classic example of a senior Ole Miss coed going to the dogs because she still hasn't found Mr. Right.

CLASS

Ole Miss students have always found getting up for 8 o'clock classes is a difficult chore, and Fraternity Row is no exception. With the new Administrative policy of mandatory attendance of classes, the residents can be found making their 7:59 "MAD DASHES" to class every day. The campus has become concerned with the daily "MAD DASHES" ever since five Fraternity Row residents were found trampled to death.

DILEMMAS

PRANKS

For a while it looked as though the Ole Miss Men's basketball team would be on their own as head coach Bob Weltlich was the unwilling victim of an unfortunate prank. The mishap occurred when Weltlich was offered a piece of bubble gum that had been sabotaged with Super Glue. Thinking quickly, Weltlich converted from vocal to hand signals. He had no comment on the incident.

LIVING

The housing shortage at Ole Miss has been a rumor to many, but these three coeds have found it to be a cruel reality. After finding no available university dorm rooms and being turned down by every apartment complex in Oxford because of a lack of space, the trio was forced to live in the street and bathe in a nearby fountain. "I've really enjoyed the constant fresh air," commented one, "but I just don't feel that my personal belongings are very safe."

TANNING

Many Ole Miss coeds try to prolong their tans as long as possible and Murrey Malmo is no exception as she shrieks with delight at the oncoming rays of October sunlight. When asked whether the chilly weather was a tanning deterrent, Murrey quickly replied, "Oh, no, no, no!" Of course, we'll never know whether it was the light or "Light" that kept her warm.

YOUTH

Sai Ireland baptizes the eternal Phi Delt Pledge, Sparky Reardon, with water from the fountain of youth.

TRENDS

ADVERTISING

Many married couples are finding it's cheaper to do without traditional rings, which makes it extremely difficult for Ole Miss males to spot eligible girls. There's no doubt about this coed's status, however, as she blatantly advertises "Un-Married And Available."

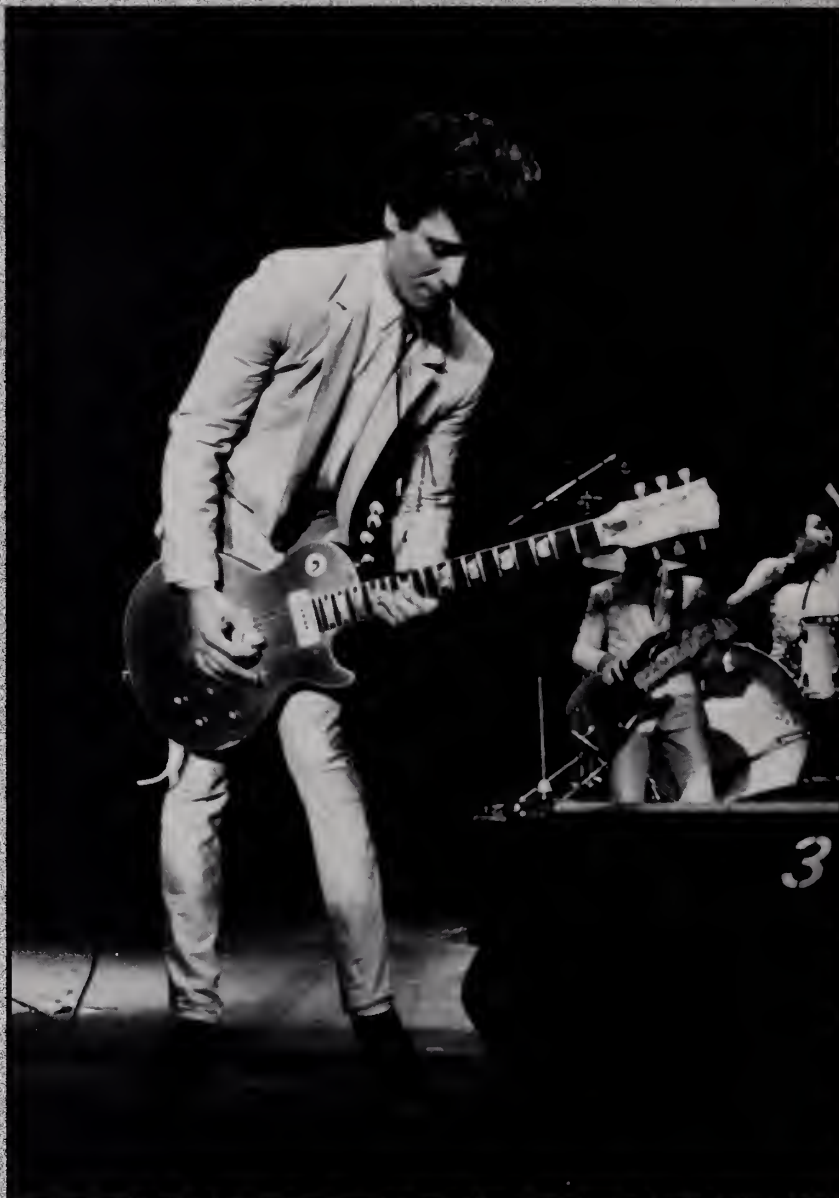

STRIKES

Following in the footsteps made by the Air Traffic Controllers, the Ole Miss Cheerleaders have sat down on the job. The local Cheerleading Union has met with Chancellor Fortune to discuss a settlement. Reports show that many proposals have not gotten off the drawing board, but a few are being kicked around.

PUNKERS

After all these years it was finally revealed that ASB president Steve Ray is (or rather was) a closet punk. The news which shocked not only the entire student body, but faculty members and the administration alike, surfaced when the popular punk rock group The Romantics had to cancel their Ole Miss concert two days before the event was to take place. Ray, who has been a fan of punk rock since it began in England several years ago, stated "... I just couldn't bear to see this happen to my university. They (the students) wanted punk and I knew that I could give it to them." Response to the concert was so overwhelming that there have been rumors about Ray forming his own group called THE RAYMANTICS, however he would not comment on the validity of the rumor.

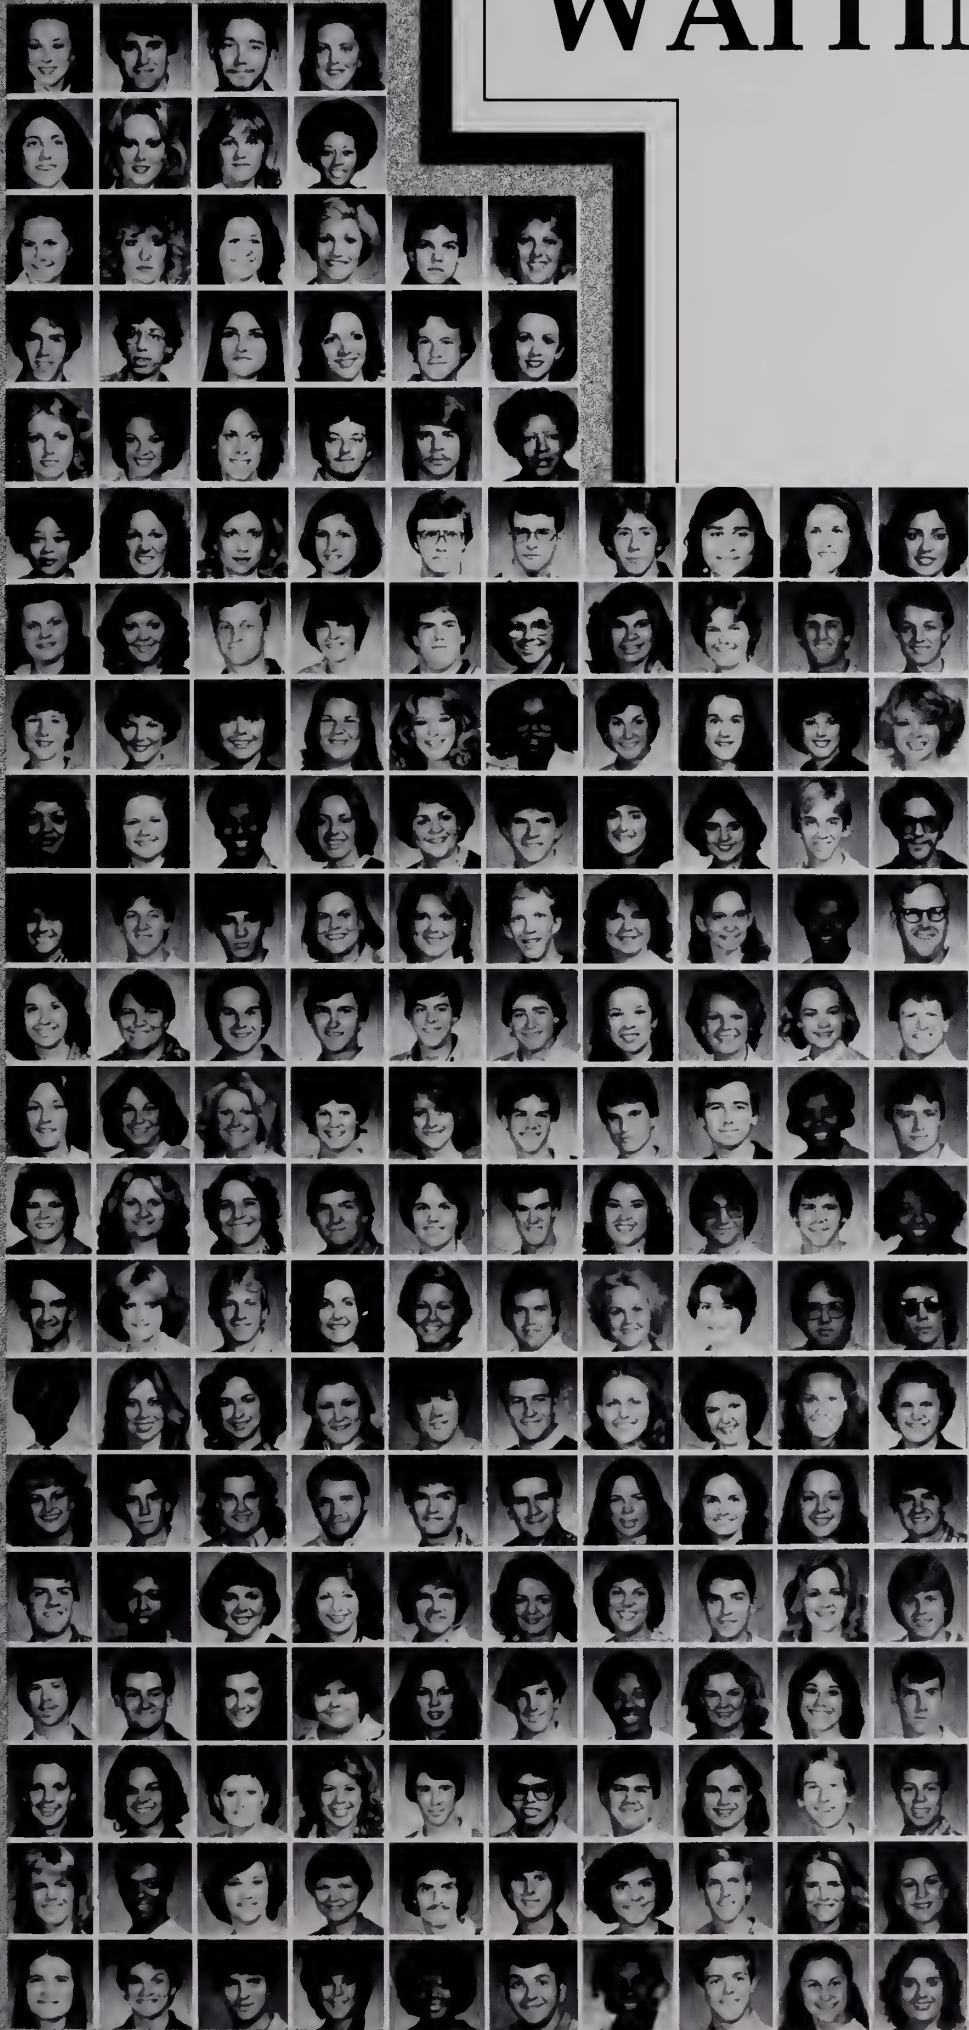

BUILDERS

For years you've all heard the rumor that the Sigma Alpha Epsilon's were going to build a new fraternity house. With doubt and caution you wondered whether to believe it or not. Well, you can now put your doubts away. As you can clearly see the SAE's are ready to move, starting first with all the paper in the house, including old tests, cheat sheets, paper towels, napkins, and toilet paper. Stated one member "This is our way of showing the entire campus that we're serious about building."

WAITERS

Due to complications beyond the control of the 1981 annual staff, not every student who had his or her class picture made was featured in the 1981 Classes Section. Having since received all the 1981 Classes pictures and wanting to give equal recognition to all who deserve it, we feel that it is the least we can do to show and applaud all those who have waited so long to see how they looked a year ago. (If you still haven't received your 1981 class picture; you can call toll free 1-800-227-8944.)

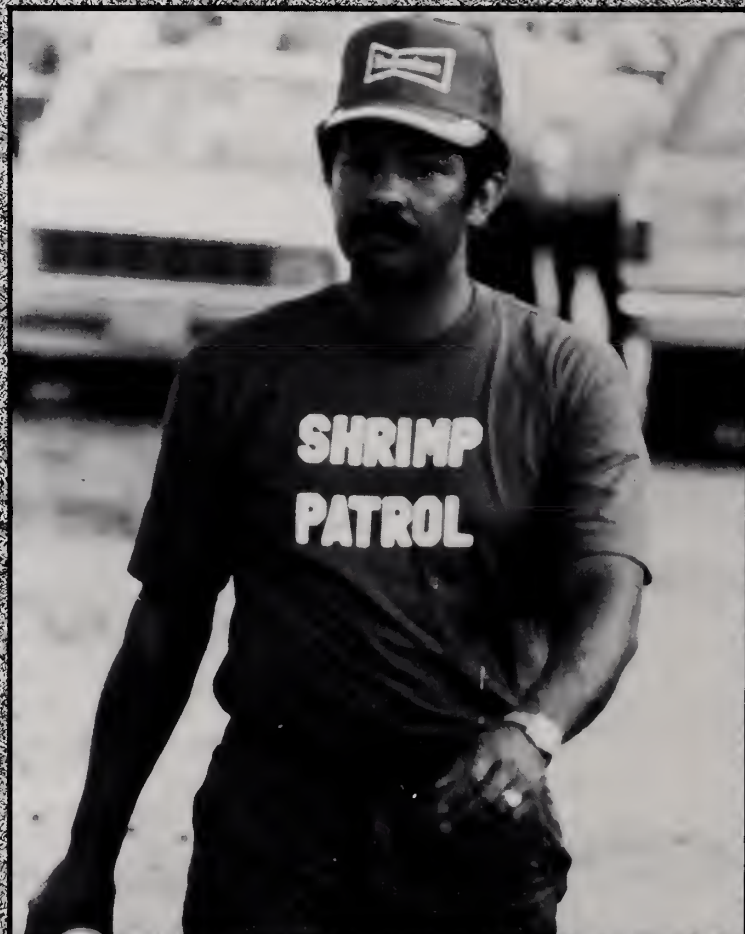

RETRIEVERS

With the increased participation in panty raids this year, the female students of the University were forced to recover their missing undergarments by any available means. Many girls have employed retriever dogs to sniff out their panties. There have been complications though. For example, this retriever doesn't seem too eager to give back the missing underwear.

PATROLLERS

The Invasion of Killer Shrimp brought a new protective agency to the Oxford Campus this year. Under the auspices of UPD. The Shrimp Patrol has the responsibility to exterminate the crustaceans of the sea. Reports show that the Killer Shrimp have been spotted everywhere from Chancellor Fortunes' home all the way to Howry Dorm. The gallant men of the Shrimp Patrol risk their lives in order to protect the students of the University. When contacted about their jobs the patrolmen quickly commented, "The food's good and it beats writing parking tickets!"

PROTECTION

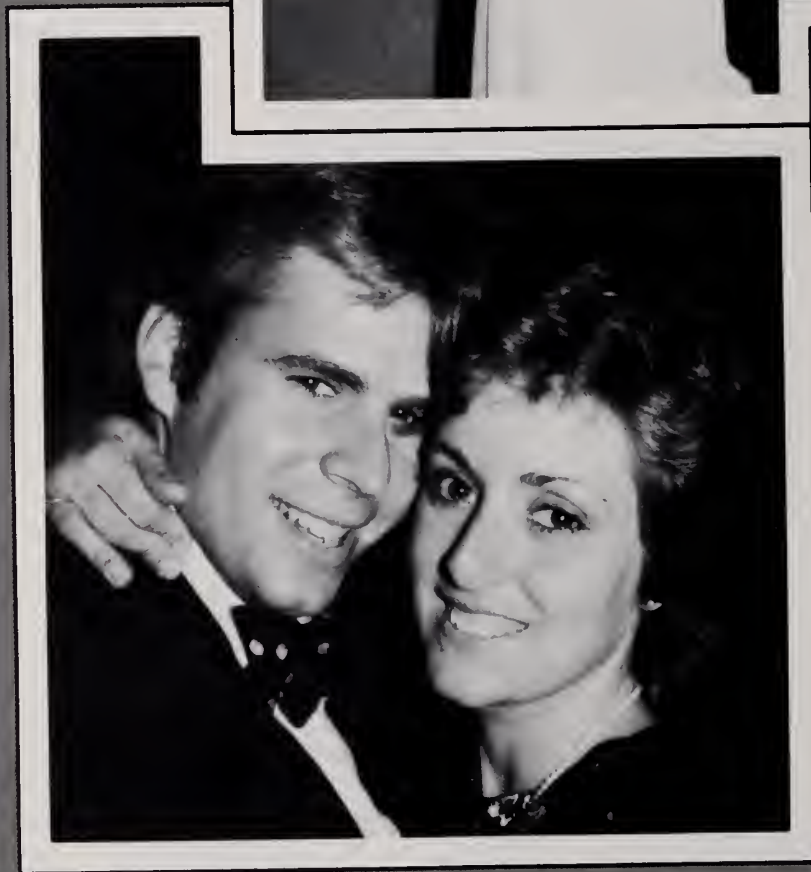

BAGGERS

It is a known fact that Ole Miss girls spend literally thousands of dollars on their wardrobes. Usually their beautiful "pride and joy" garments end up ruined in one night at a fraternity swap thanks to spilled beers and cigarette burns. These ingenious Kappa's have vowed to fight back, buck the system, keep their closets stuffed, and keep their new clothes looking newer longer. Using a trash bag to cover themselves up. One commented on the new cover by saying, "I've found that I have to spend more time with my hair and make-up . . . you know to draw attention away from my clothes. Also, if you time your arrival late enough, the party is so crowded that no one can see below your neck anyway. If the party gets too out of hand, I always carry an extra 'baggie' to cover up my hair and make-up."

VIEWERS

Ole Miss students enthusiastically endorsed the ASB Film Series-sponsored "Marty Feldman Movie Week." A slight dilemma occurred when it was discovered mid-way through the week that the Feldman movies were produced on a negatively-charged magnetic film that caused viewer's eyes to bulge and turn outward. Upon the discovery students were furnished with protective eye wear. Dilemma or not, the film week was so successful that the Film Series is planning a Telly Savalas Week next year. Protective head covers are already on order.

Football

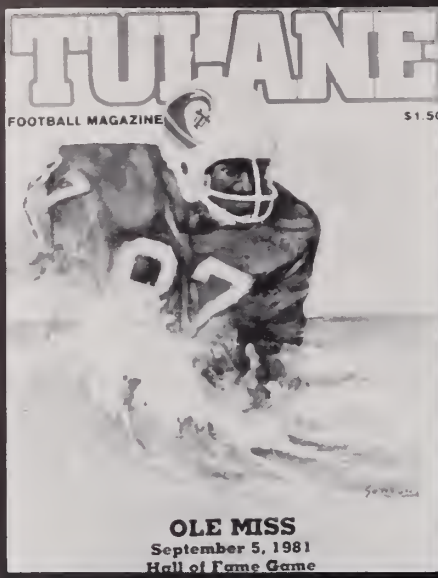

There's nothing quite like the color and pageantry of college football in the heart of Dixie. From Peabody's Lobby to Pat O'Brien's — in Oxford, Jackson, or on the road, each week the Ole Miss Rebels with legions of followers take to the battlefield to stake their claim as the "Pride of the South."

Amidst a sea of Rebel flags waving to the strains of Dixie, these Confederate Soldiers fight for the Gallant Cause. They strive for victory — to be the best. The Ole Miss Family accepts nothing less than a winner. They remember the glory years when battles were rarely lost. And they reflect upon the desolate battlefields of the recent past, but they dare not bow their heads.

The Soldiers know that the Cause is not lost. Ole Miss is a unique institution. Its pride and traditions run deep. And on one fall afternoon in the very near future, Ole Miss People, dressed for the occasion, will gather in the Grove, march to Hemingway and witness the Confederate troops rise again.

YES, THESE CONFEDERATE REBELS WILL BE BACK. THE OLE MISS REBELS BY DAMN!

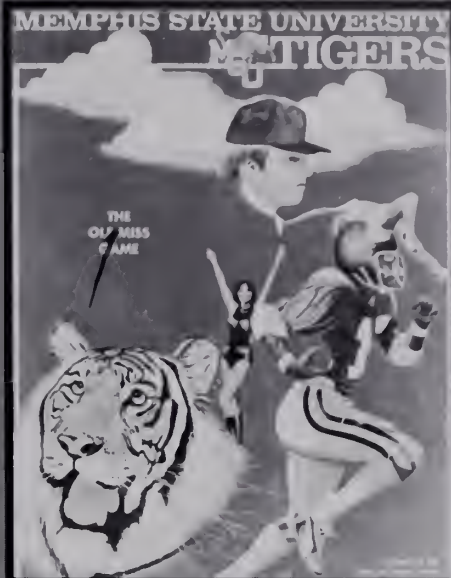

New Orleans . . . the home of the Mardi Gras, the French Quarter, and not the least of all Tulane University. The Rebels opened their season in this exciting city when they collided head-on with the Green Wave in the Superdome. John Fourcade played with pins in his broken hand, and remained in the game until he received a shoulder injury in the second half. Sophomore Kelly Powell made several passes to Buford McGee, Breck Tyler and Steve Dearie for a total of 96 yards. A Todd Gatlin fieldgoal gave the Rebs a 19-18 victory over the Green Wave.

After the trip to New Orleans, the Rebels were off to do battle with the South Carolina Gamecocks. Going into halftime with the score 13-10 Carolina, Ole Miss returned with an explosive defense. Malvin Gipson broke the 29 yards that put Ole Miss ahead 17-13, and the recovery of a Gamecock fumble boosted the score to 20-13 Ole Miss. One of the finest plays of the game occurred when Thomas Hubbard stopped Gamecock running back Dominique Blassingame on a desperate Gamecock fourth down pass. "The difference between 2-0 and 0-2 is our defense," said Coach Sloan.

With two wins to their credit, an excited Rebel team and fans headed to battle with the Memphis State Tigers in the Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium. Because of Memphis State Tiger domination — the first half ended 3-0 in favor of the Tigers, but Ole Miss was ready for a comeback. Driving the ball to the 28-yard line, the Rebels were held by the Tiger defense, and a 46-yard attempt by Todd Gatlin failed. The game was not over, however. Rebel quarterback John Fourcade burst through the line of scrimmage for a 35 yard touchdown, and Gatlin's successful field goal put the Rebs on top, defeating the Tigers 7-3.

Coming into their fourth game with a 3-0 record seemed like a great way for the Ole Miss Rebels to renew an old rivalry with the Arkansas Razorbacks, but the Hogs weren't willing to give Ole Miss an easy win. Early in the game Ole Miss had a substantial lead, but a TD and PAT by the Hogs narrowed the lead to 13-10 at the half.

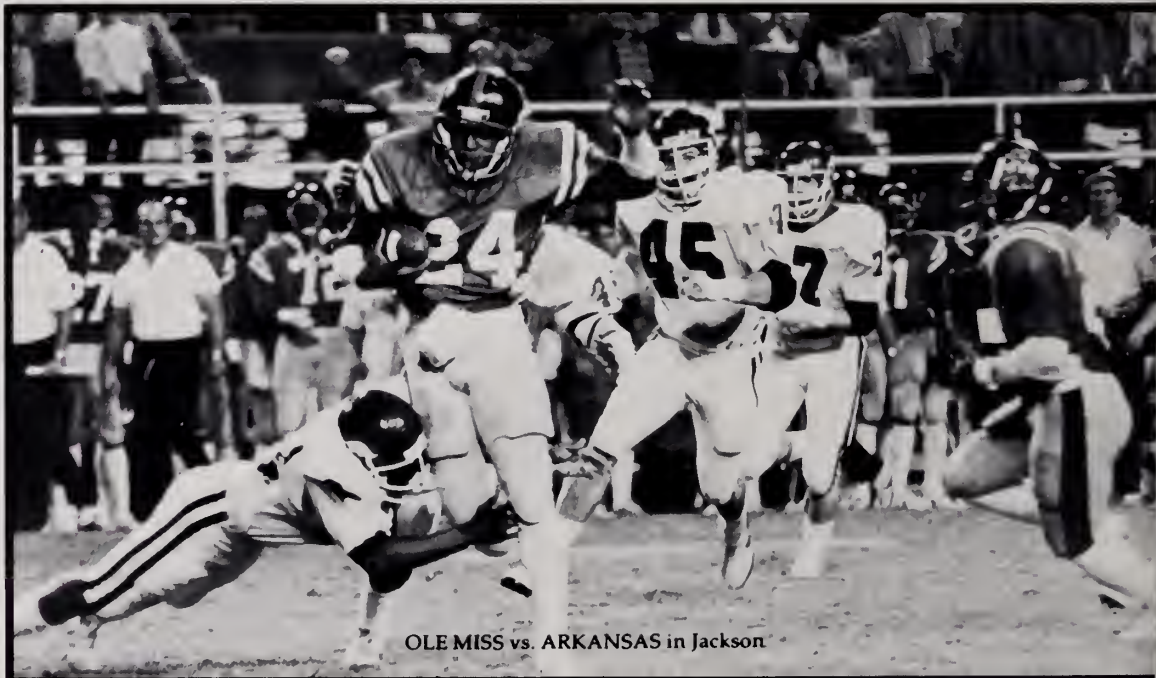

The Hogs dominated the second half. Controlling the ball twice in the third quarter, the Hogs scored both times, making the score 20-13 in the Hogs' favor. Hog junior cornerback Danny Walter then intercepted a pass Fourcade intended for Gino English, and Walter's fatal 87 yard run for the touchdown ended the game — Razorbacks 27 — Ole Miss 13.

Despite the tragic loss to Arkansas, Ole Miss Rebels' spirits were high with anticipation for the following battle with the Crimson Tide of Alabama. Ole Miss was looking for an upset victory, but they were looking in the wrong place as the Tide rolled over them 38-7. The Rebels' passing, running, receiving, blocking and defense fell to pieces. Coach Steve Sloan summed up the game in the post game conference by saying, "They blocked better than we did; they tackled better than we did; they deserved to win. They are a lot better out there than what we saw on film. There are no excuses; we just got beat."

OLE MISS

October 12, 1981. Legislative Day at Ole Miss. The first home game, and the Hershel Walker Show is ready to begin. Colliding head-on with the ninth-ranked Georgia Bulldogs, Ole Miss opened their SEC schedule. Rebel Quarterback Fourcade gave the fans hope with a touchdown, but was then injured and replaced by Kelly Powell and Kent Austin. Although both Powell and Austin tried desperately to keep the Rebels in the game, Georgia's offense shattered the Rebel defense. The contest belonged to Hershel Walker, who carried the ball 41 times for a total of 265 yards, handing Georgia a 37-7 victory over Ole Miss. Rebel linebacker Thomas Hubbard said, "He (Walker) is a tough player to bring down. Walker complimented the Reb defense after the game by saying, "They played real hard against us because they really got after us ball carriers."

Ole Miss found out the hard way that Gators aren't fun to play with. A Reb fumble handed the Gators the ball and a victory. Fourcade and the Rebel offense did get the ball to the Gator's 22-yard line where Todd Gatlin booted a 40 yard field goal for Ole Miss' only points. The final score was Ole Miss 3 to the Gator's 49 points.

OLE MISS vs. FLORIDA in Gainesville

It was a crisp, autumn day — a great beginning for an Ole Miss homecoming, but a sad ending with a Rebel defeat. The game started off with the Rebs quickly racking up 10 points, but two costly fumbles allowed the Commodores to hit pay dirt twice and they led the Rebels 13-0 by the end of the first half. In the third period Andre Thomas, Rebel fullback, ran up the middle of the Vandy line nine times for a 56 yard scoring march. The Rebels led 17-13 after a successful PAT. This lead was shattered in the fourth quarter when Vandy tailback Van Heflin took the ball in for a TD with 11:12 left to play. Rebel Malvin Gibson took the kickoff 57 yards, but fumbled and Vandy took over on their 45. Eight plays later the Commodores led 27-17. The Rebs rallied to come back and score but with only 13 seconds to play, Vandy had clinched the game with a 27-23 victory.

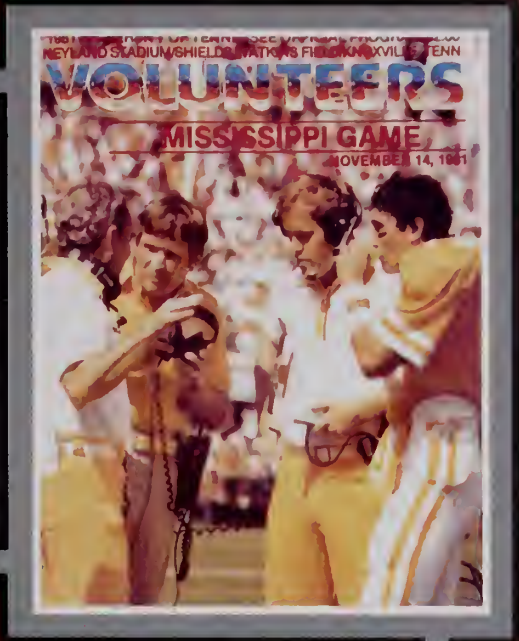

Mississippi Memorial Stadium and the Ole Miss Rebels clash with the Bayou Bengals of LSU. With both teams entering the game with 3-5 record, the fans were full of excitement and hope for a Rebel victory. Despite high hopes the Tigers rallied and played excitingly close with the final score, a 27-27 tie.

Fifteen out of 31 passes for 194 yards gave quarterback John Fourcade a total of 4929 yards on 403 completions, breaking Archie Manning's school career record.

With LSU taking a slight lead in the second half 24-21, the Rebels did not allow the lead for long. They surged down the field to get within fieldgoal range and Gatlin booted one through to tie it up again, 24-24. With 29 seconds left Gatlin kicked a three pointer right after a great interception by defensive end Bryan Kennedy, giving us a 29-24 lead. The Tigers weren't going to quit and after a drive downfield and one second on the clock LSU kicked a fieldgoal to tie it 27-27.

The Rebels fought hard in Neyland Stadium in Knoxville against the Tennessee Volunteers, and the game was a heart stopper. Tennessee had 28 points on the board at the half to Ole Miss' 6, but the Rebels came back after halftime, with a strong defense and thundering offense. Recovering a fumble with less than three minutes left on the clock, Fourcade drove the Rebels toward the goal post. Buford McGee caught a quick pass for the TD, and Michael Harmon captured the toss for the two point conversion. The gap closed to 8 points, but the Rebs were unable to score against the running clock, and the final score was 28-20.

BULLDOGS

BULLDOGS vs. REBELS 1972

"I've been here four years," Ole Miss quarterback John Fourcade said, "and I want to leave on a happy note."

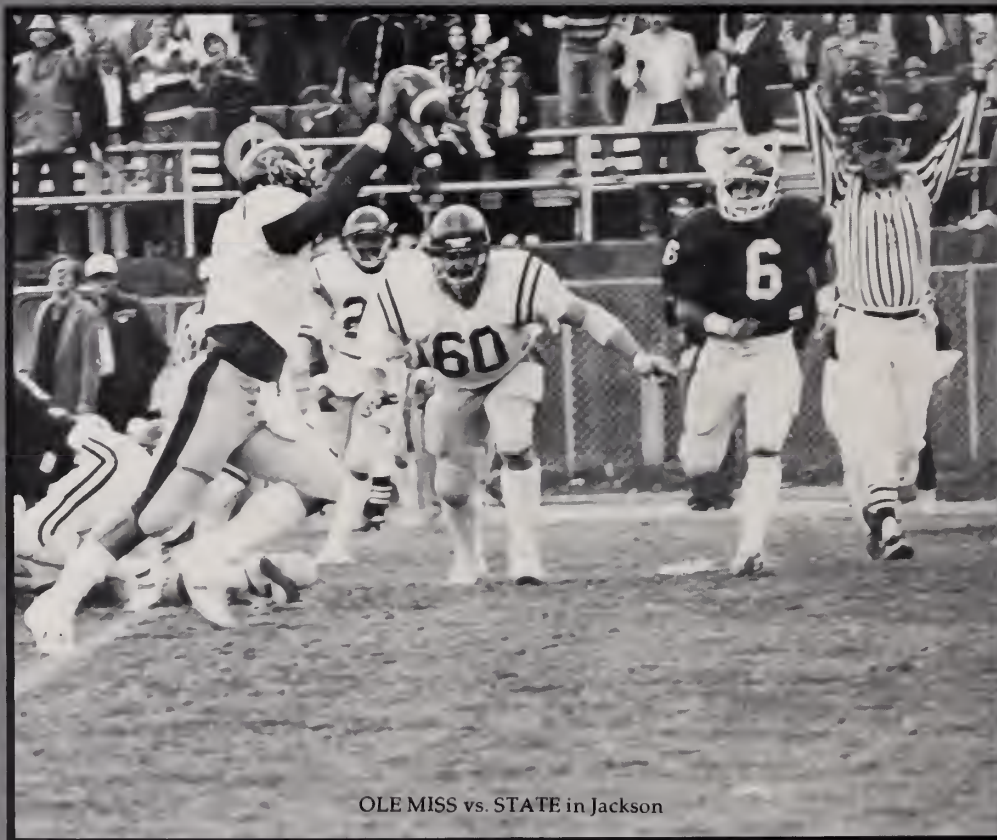

The Ole Miss-State score revealed just how happy the note was. Ole Miss 21-Mississippi State Dawgs 17. The entire game was a battle of defenses and ball control. A Fourcade pass to Andre Thomas put the first points of the game on the scoreboard. The Dawgs weren't trained well enough to know to roll over and play dead, and they challenged the Rebels' lead, making the score read Dawgs 14-Rebels 7 at the half.

Second half errors cost State the game. First the Dawgs missed a fieldgoal, then they fumbled and the Rebels intercepted a key pass which kept them in the game.

The final minute of the game was the most exciting. State led 17-14; Ole Miss got the ball back, and with victory so close, the Rebel offense never thought of slowing down.

"The last play in the game . . . there was a fake in the middle. I thought Hammerhead made a great fake, in fact such a great fake that I thought he had the ball, and I thought I had a heart attack," said an astonished Coach, Steve Sloan.

What happened in the final play was Fourcade kept the ball, and breezed in the endzone for the final touchdown, ending his last college football game victoriously.

Basketball

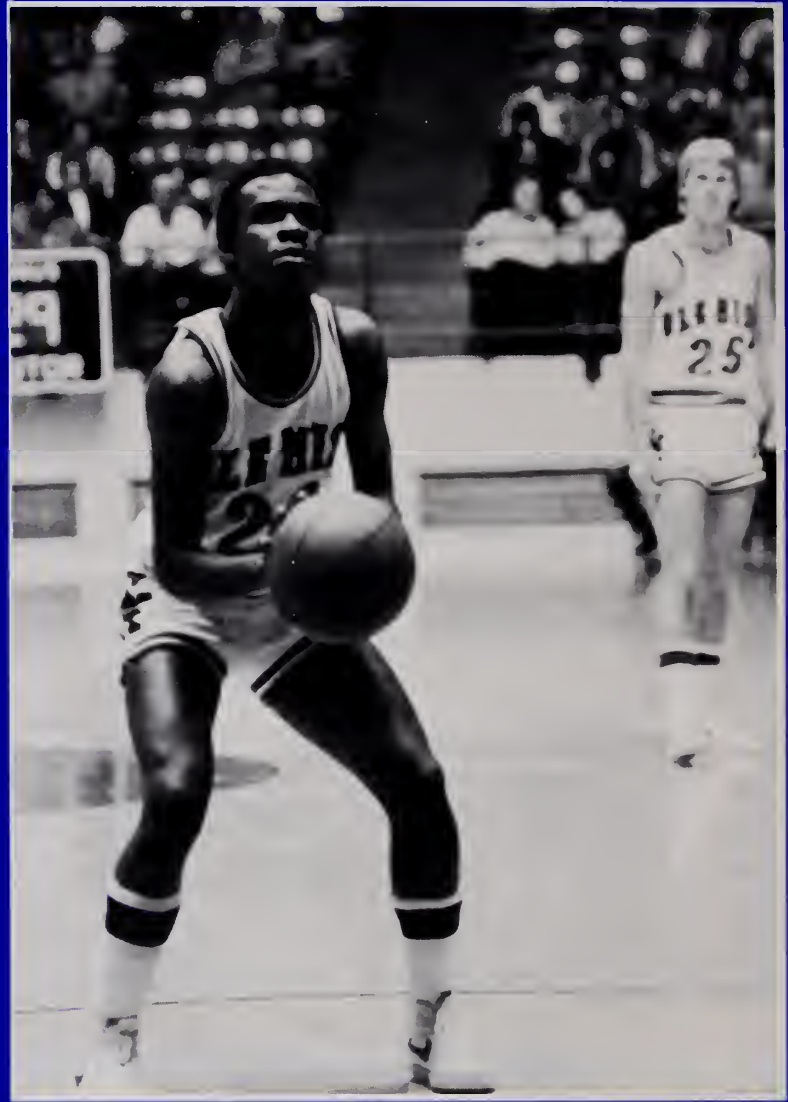

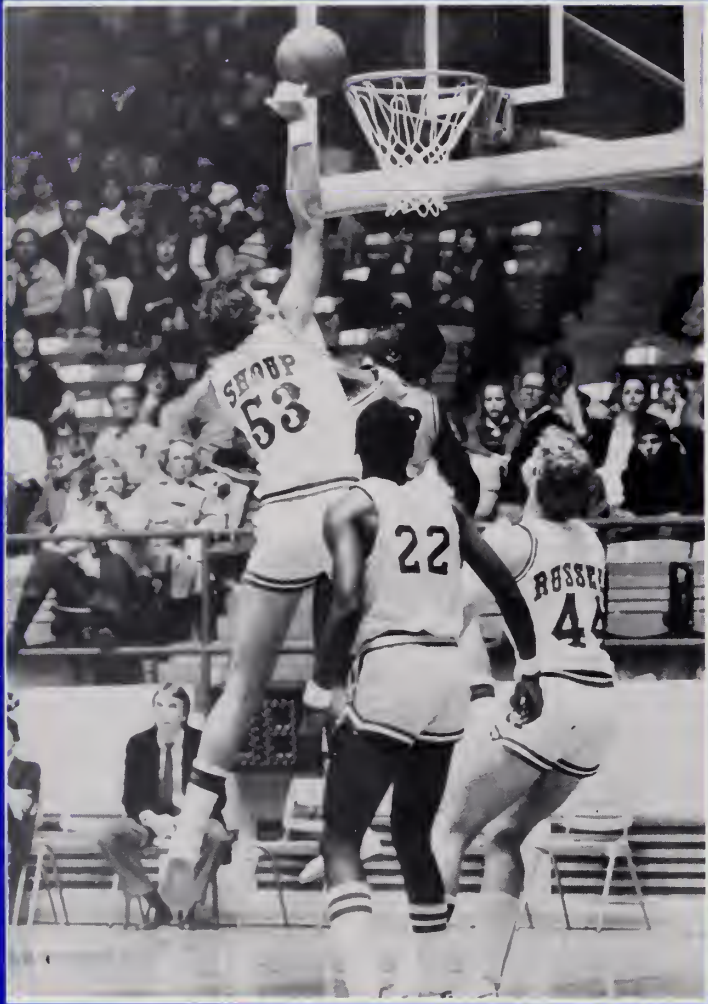

Basketball at Ole Miss has been around for quite a long time. The men's basketball team had its beginning in 1908 and only played five games that season. In 1981, twenty-three years after Rebel basketball began, the SEC tournament championship was won! The men's basketball program has had a long road to march for its current status. From the first game in 1909 against the Memphis Physicians to their 1452nd against NCAA tournament foe, Kansas, the Rebel basketball team has come a long way to get here.

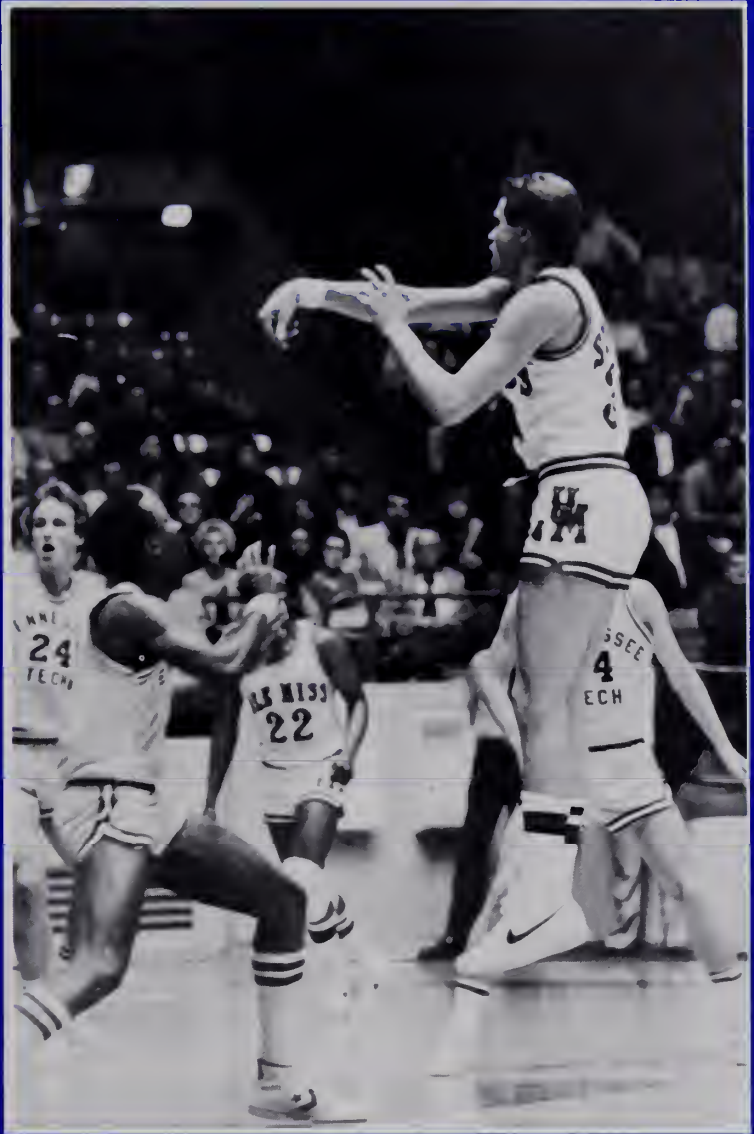

Men's basketball at Ole Miss has produced six All-Americans, twelve All-SEC players, plus Academic All-Americans and academic All-SEC's. Some of the most recent are John Stroud, All-American 1980, Elston Turner, All-SEC, Sean Tuohy, All-SEC, and Carlos Clark, All-SEC.

The Rebel team could not have made it as far as it has without great coaching. The team started with E. R. Hubbard who began the line of coaching succession to Bob Weltlich in 1977. All of these coaches have devoted time, skill, and leadership ability to bring men's basketball to Ole Miss. Under Weltlich the Rebels have risen to national acclaim. With recruits like Eric Laird, George Mackner, and Chico Pertridge, the team now has depth. Carlos Clark, Sean Tuohy, Roger Steig, and Tim Thomas are back to provide leadership. Kentucky, Alabama, Tennessee, and Auburn all were victims of the Rebel squad. The success of the team in field goals shooting in the SEC and was among the top in the nation. Weltlich's hard work did not go unnoticed as he was named the head coach of the USA National Men's team.

WELTLICH'S REBELS START A PROMISING YEAR

REBEL BASKETBALL

This year's basketball season at Ole Miss has been one characterized by fast play and a great deal of excitement; a year of excellent teamwork giving both the men and women winning seasons.

Talented young freshmen have proven themselves to the team, coaching staff and fans time and again. After only a few games, freshman standout Eric Laird was fondly referred to as "E. Jr." as the well-sought replacement for former Ole Miss star Elston Turner. Maturity and court sense allowed Laird to start early, and he showed his abilities with the ball with the assistance of the other outstanding Rebel players such as Carlos Clark, Roger Stieg and Sean Tuohy.

Sean Tuohy played hard for Ole Miss in his four years here, and skill was well known throughout the Southeastern Conference. Tuohy shattered the old record for assists, becoming the new all-time SEC assist leader.

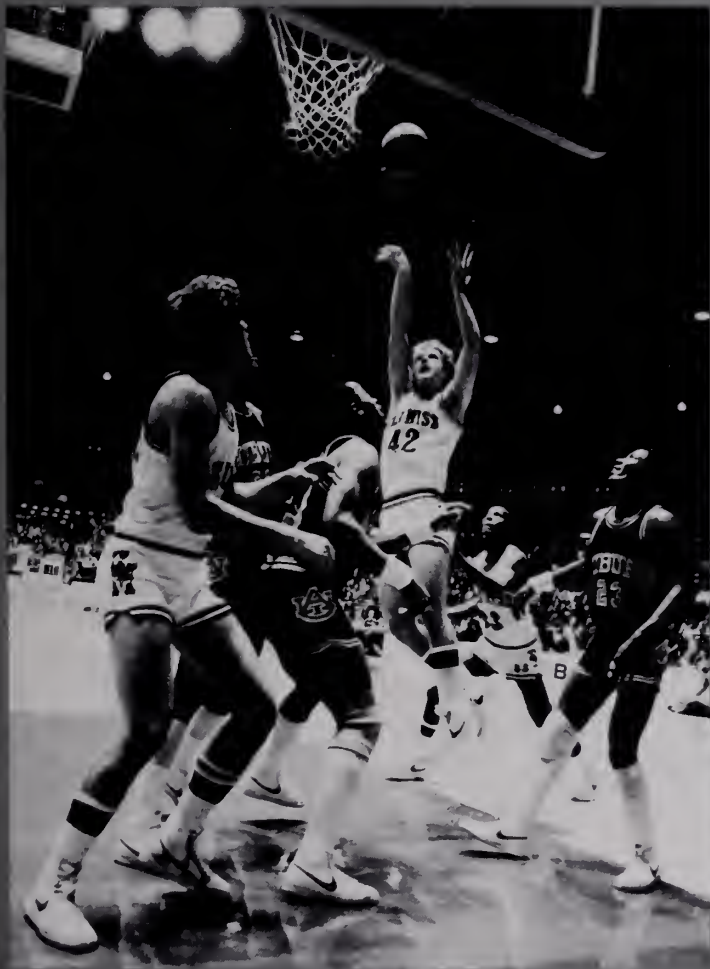

Under the direction of former Coach of the Year Bob Weltlich, the young Rebel squad electrified fans with victories over the Kentucky Wildcats, Auburn Tigers, Tennessee Vols, and the Mississippi State Bulldogs. With a 16-10 record, the Rebels finished 4th in the South Eastern Conference and traveled to Lexington KY, to defend their SEC championship of a year ago.

Basketball

There weren't enough girls at the University of Mississippi in 1912 to join the first Lady Rebel basketball team, so the University turned to Oxford High School for three additional players needed.

Sailor-style blouses topping below-the-knee bloomers and stockings were the Lady Reb's homemade uniforms. Girls coming out in shorts would have been disgraceful.

The Lady Rebs used the same gym as the men, but the gym wasn't enclosed. Bricked halfway up, then open for several feet before it was covered by a roof, the gym was unheated. Dodging frozen puddles of water on the gym floor was not uncommon for the Lady Rebels. Although none of the players received athletic scholarships, Ole Miss paid all travel expenses and varsity players received "M" letters.

Considering the youthfulness and newness of the basketball team since 1974, the Lady Reb's record is indeed impressive. Bragging of the longest coliseum winning streak of 20 games, the Lady Rebels' longest losing streak in the coliseum is only two games.

The overall all-time record for twenty-three seasons is 196 wins, 104 losses and two ties. Definitely enjoying a homecourt advantage, the Lady Rebs have been beaten only sixteen times in the coliseum. This year the Lady Rebels brought the University national acclaim. Late in the season the squad gained national status with a top 20 title. Victories over Alabama, Auburn, and LSU gave Rebel fans something to brag about.

LADY REBELS BREAK INTO TOP 20

LADY REBELS BASKETBALL

Impressive is a word often overused, but it is the only word that does justice to the outstanding Lady Rebel Basketball team coached by Van Chancellor. All-American Peggy Gilliam was back to her Alma Mater to help with the coaching duties.

Ranked in AP's Top Twenty this season, the Lady Rebels were led by many new players. Eugenia Conner, the All-SEC center for Ole Miss, was consistently one of the high scorers in each of the team's games. Martien Brooks played a key role in the Lady Rebel defense, often putting the team out of many tight situations. Rachelle Thompson and Sandra Newborn filled key positions for the Lady Rebs. Coming off the bench Sherry King and Sandra Helms provided depth at the guard positions.

Although Lady Rebel Basketball first played in front of fans in 1914 after the team was formed in 1912, basketball at Ole Miss was abandoned until the early 1970's. Revitalized in 1974, the Lady Rebs can now brag of being former state champions and participating in state tournaments, nationals, AIAW Region III tournament, the Bulldog Classic, AIAW Eastern Satellite, Orange Bowl, Dual Classic and the Lady Kat Tournament.

From winning their first game in 1914 to their latest win this season, the Lady Rebels have an outstanding all-time record of 196 wins, 104 losses and two ties in twenty-three seasons.

The Lady Rebs were 10-1 before the Christmas break with the only loss at the hands of the Texas Longhorns. A double overtime loss to the Crimson Tide of Alabama proved to be the only other blemish on the record going into mid-February. The Lady Rebs finished the regular season at 27-3, but suffered a 77-73 loss to the lady Tigers of LSU—a team the Rebels had beaten two times previous to the SEC tournament.

Cheerleaders

The Ole Miss Cheerleading squad holds the distinction of being recognized as one of the top squads in not one, but two separate cheerleading organizations, the National Cheerleading Association and the Universal Cheerleading Association.

Selected the third best group in the nation, the squad, led by captain Ty Cobb, captured the first place title this summer. The Ole Miss Cheerleaders were in competition with 99 other universities.

Representing the University of Mississippi at NBA games and halftime shows, Ty Cobb, John White and Jeff Hubbard appeared in several contests last year. The "Bushmen" as they are called will make approximately 15 appearances for NBA games this year.

Tennis

Ole Miss has a young tennis team for 1981-82. The tennis coaching staff views this year's team optimistically because it will consist of last year's 18-4 returners and some very talented freshman.

Returning will be last year's #1 duo. Freshmen will strengthen an already powerful club.

Coach Russell Blair expects an even greater effort from this year's Rebel Netters.

“Youth, tougher scheduling, and year-round play will make Ole Miss a winner.”

Baseball

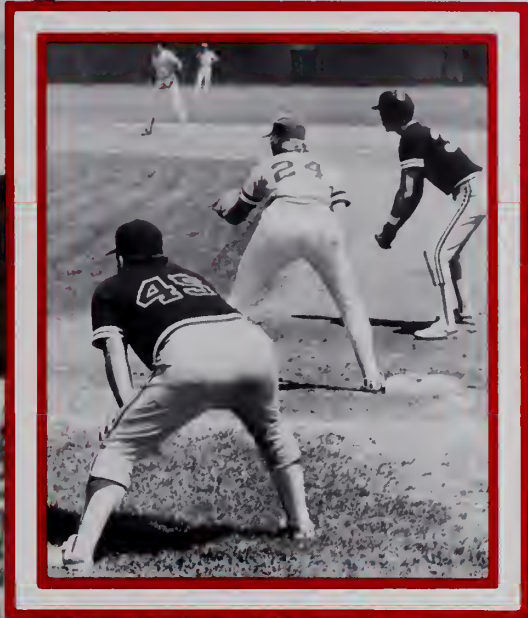

From a meek beginning in 1923, Ole Miss Baseball has grown to the sizeable modern ball club of the present. During those 55 years, the ball club has had its ups and downs — going from not having a team in 1944-45 to SEC Champs in 1977. Over this expanse of time, the Rebels have won 789 games, lost 574, and tied 10 for a grand total of 1,382 games. They've also produced some of the finest coaches and players there could ever be.

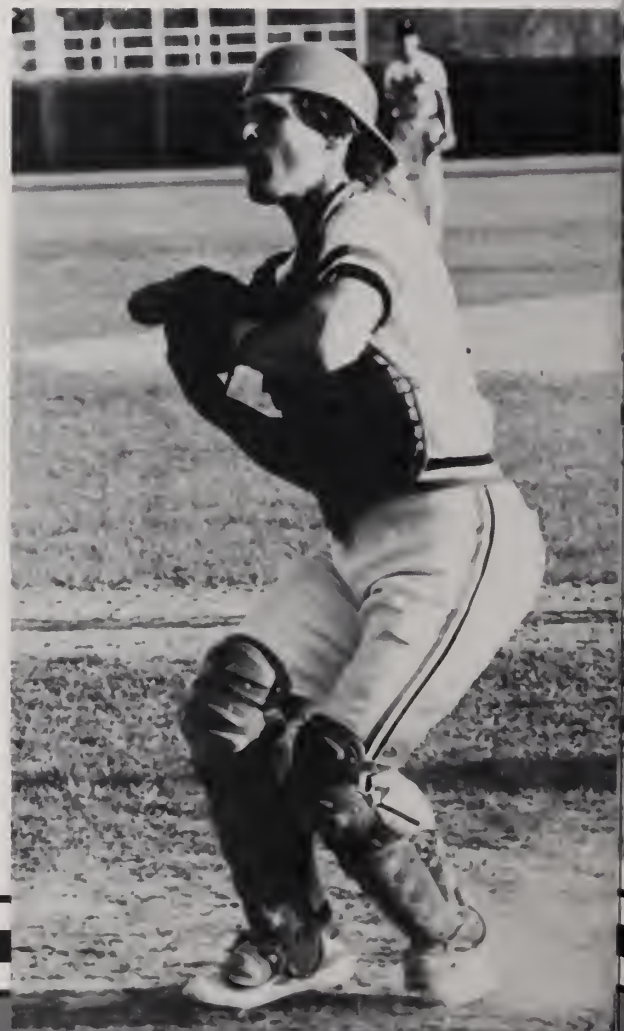

The first coach for Ole Miss was Pete Shields. Under his supervision the Rebels developed from a rag-tag team to a contender. Shields coached the Rebels for nine years before turning over the team to Tad Smith. Smith was at the helm from 1932-50, except for 1943 when Goat Hale guided the team. Tom Swayze was named the Rebel mentor following Smith's rule.

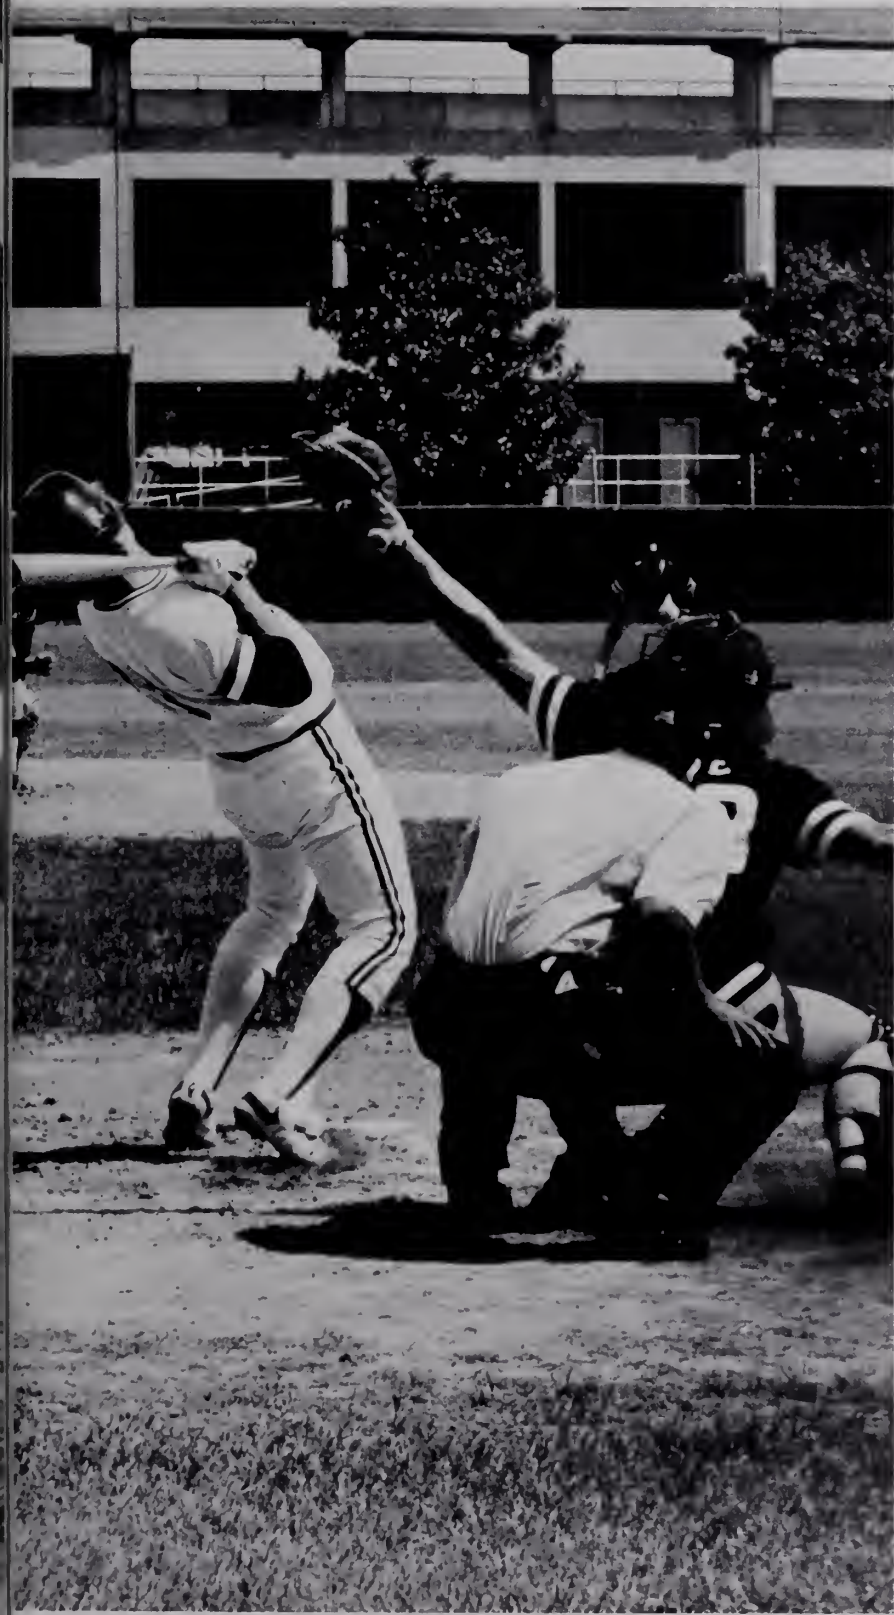

By this time, the SEC games were being played and Coach Swayze took the Rebels to Overall SEC Champions four times. Also, over a span from 1956-70, Ole Miss claimed five All-Americans; Bernie Schriber, Jake Gibbs, Don Kessinger, Jimmy Yawn and Whitley Adams. After 21 years of guiding the Rebel squad Swayze gave the ball club to one of his former players, Jake Gibbs.

Gibbs took the club in 1972 and has coached the team until the present. Coach Gibbs brought the Rebs to the SEC championships twice, and both times the Rebels came out on top.

Baseball is the All-American sport. It ranks near to "Mom" and homemade apple pie. Ole Miss Baseball has given many pleasurable hours to the fans. Yes, Ole Miss Baseball has come a long way from its meager beginning, and the future for the Rebels is limitless.

REBEL BASEBALL 1981

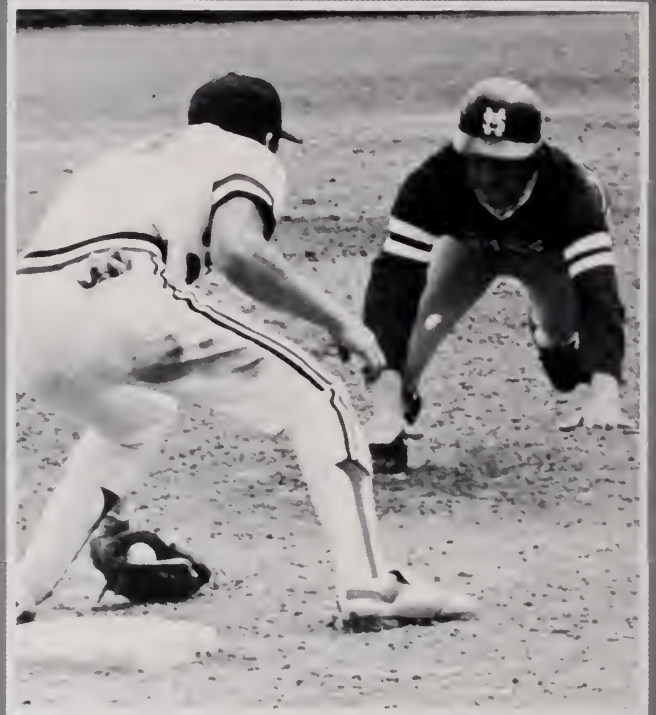

Pitching, offense, and defense are the keys to a successful baseball team, and the Ole Miss Rebels maintained a balance of the essential elements as they played 49 games, 23 of which were conference contests. Final statistics for the '81" season showed the Rebels with a record of 24-24-1.

Getting underway with practice early in the spring gave the ballclub its excellent start. Despite the fact that one of the better pitchers, Randy Coleman, developed arm trouble, the team's game was consistent. Freshman pitcher Laddie Renfro was a bright spot on the team as he ranked second in the number of innings pitched for the season. Larry Simcox, the gifted Rebel short stop, made the prestigious All-SEC team. Simcox and Rebel pitcher Johnny Adams went on to sign contracts with professional teams. The Houston Astros grabbed Simcox, and Adams was called up by the St. Louis Cardinals.

The 1981 Rebel squad had a combined batting average of .294, and they finished ahead of their opponents in the total number of doubles and triples. With a full schedule waiting this fall, the Ole Miss Rebels experimented with many different aspects of the game, as they prepared for the six game fall schedule. "Pitching is the key to a good strong ballclub," commented the Rebel mentor, Jake Gibbs. Gibbs also added, "It looks good for '82."

*"Pitching is the
strong ballclub."*

Each year the Associated Student Body Cabinet provides the vital function of linking the student government with the students. Cabinet officials coordinate such broad areas of campus life as school spirit, academic affairs, and university relations, and take responsibility for specific programs like Dixie Week, Legislative Day, Refrigerator Rentals, Traffic Appeals, and Film Series. Each ASB Cabinet officer, with the assistance of sub-cabinet committee chairmen, organizes and operates an important government department with the overall goal of achieving an effective service relationship with the student body.

Their success in reaching this objective each year is dependent upon student interest, input, and participation, each of which aids the Cabinet's efforts to make the Ole Miss student's relationship to his student government a positive one.

The Committee of 82, composed of students representing the 82 counties of Mississippi, works with state legislators for the interests of the University of Mississippi.

The Committee helped sponsor Legislative Day at the Ole Mis-Georgia football game when members of the Committee had the opportunity to meet and to talk with various legislators. The major objective of the Committee was to have its members write the legislators from their voting districts concerning the needs of the University and problems of its students.

Phi Beta Lambda is a national organization comprised of college business students and representing Future Business Leaders of America. Established in 1958, Phi Beta Lambda's main goals are to develop competent, aggressive business leadership, to encourage scholarship, and to create a better understanding of America's free enterprise system. These objectives are accomplished through guest speakers, community projects, committee involvement, and leadership conferences.

Highlighting the 1981-82 year of the Gamma Tau Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda is the Southern Regional Conference in Baton Rouge, Louisiana; the State Conference in Biloxi, Mississippi; and the National Conference in Indianapolis, Indiana. The state and national conferences allow students to participate in competitive events in such areas as accounting, economics, business law, business communications, data processing, office procedures, future business executives, and many more. In addition to conferences, Phi Beta Lambda members host annual skating parties, volleyball marathons, workshops, and faculty teas and arrange field trips and guest speakers from the business community.

The Black Student Union with its colors of Red, Black and Green, was founded on the Ole Miss campus in 1969 by a group of Black students who were isolated from the mainstream of student government. They sought an organization to create unity with one another and to express issues of Minority Concerns to the University.

The purposes of the BSU are the development of leadership and service to the campus and Black Community, unity among its members, participation on the Committee of Black Concerns and to the maintenance of its members' civil and political rights.

Richie Renfrow and Freddie Manley placed first and second in the 50-yd. free at the USM and Ole Miss Fall meet.

The Ole Miss Aquatic Club (OMAC) was founded in 1977 by four students, Jackie Gardner, Jack Caldwell, Jeff McKinney and H. "Flash" Greenlaw, who wished to continue their swimming while in college. OMAC and the Intramural Dept. of HPER co-sponsor the annual fall Water Festival and the Intramural Swimming, Diving and H₂O Polo meets. The Aquatic Club sponsors the Extramural Swimming and Diving team which competes with other colleges in the Fall and Spring. For three of the past four years OMAC has won the Miss. Collegiate Swimming and Diving Championships. Six aquatic sports are currently provided for OMAC members in the 50-yd. outdoor pool and expansion is planned in the 1982-83 year with the new indoor aquatic center featuring 75 yards of indoor pools.

1981 teacher of the year

Dr. K. S. Yun, associate professor in the Department of Chemistry at the University, is the recipient of the Outstanding Teacher of the Year Award.

The award was established fifteen years ago to recognize faculty members for achievements in teaching. Nominations for Outstanding Teachers are made by alumni, current students, and faculty, with final selection by a committee of former recipients.

Dr. Yun received his B.S. Degree in Chemistry at Seoul National University of Cincinnati. He has been teaching for sixteen years. The last fourteen of those years have been spent here.

When asked what he expects of his students, many things come to mind. However, two aspects stand out as being most important: sincerity of learning, and a great effort in learning. No matter how difficult a subject can be, Dr. Yun feels that a student can make great accomplishments while keeping that in mind.

Always wanting to be a teacher, Dr. Yun finds the profession to be most rewarding, stating, "Teaching is a very unselfish thing — understanding and learning new ideas, then conveying them to my students."

mortar board

Established originally as a national women's honor society, Mortar Board is now one of the highest senior honor groups for both men and women. Tassels, the local chapter, has been an active part of the Ole Miss campus since its founding in 1939. Mortar Board has a limit of thirty-five members. Selections are based on leadership, scholarship, service and at least a 3.0 overall GPA.

Mortar Board is a society that challenges the individual and the groups to provide thoughtful leadership to the campus and community, to create an environment of effective communication and to move toward a meaningful goal. The society continues to support the improvement of the status of men and women.

iota nu upsilon

Iota Nu Upsilon was chartered on Jan. 22, 1982 at the University of Mississippi. It was organized to give recognition to those individuals whose scholastic and social performance are uniquely their own. Iota Nu U's are chosen according to academic achievement (2.0 maximum GPA), social acceptance (recognized by all fine eating and drinking establishments), and personality (grouchy, especially in the morning).

Membership is open to all students with 15 or more hours, but is very selective — only those willing to work hard and yet have a good time are chosen.

Whether it's the guy from down the hall, a fraternity brother, a sorority sister, or just someone from class — there's someone you can call a friend. Even though your backgrounds are worlds apart, his home is 600 miles from yours, and he's majoring in Business instead of Liberal Arts — Somehow you were destined to become friends. It's that friendship and many others like it that got you through all those bad exam grades, the fight with your girlfriend, or that term paper you waited until the last minute to start. Those late night strolls through the grove and past the majestic columns of the Lyceum gave you both a chance to know each other better. Maybe she just wanted you to be the first to know that she was dropped, or he wanted to tell you about his date with a special girl, but your knowing was the important thing.

That road trip to New Orleans for the weekend was great, but it was who you were with rather than the places you went that made the trip a lasting memory. The closeness that develops because of mutual experiences could never be put into words, but you both know it's there.

"... Ole Miss is a smile of recognition, an excited embrace, a warm handshake, a friend in every town..."

Panhellenic

The Panhellenic Council strives for the advancement and unification of all Greek sororities. On campus, the Ole Miss Panhellenic is the body that governs over all sorority members. Panhellenic also oversees Formal Rush in the fall, and this year, they established a fourth rush party. Panhellenic, along with the Interfraternity Council, also sponsors Greek Week each year to promote good relations within the Greek system. This year, Panhellenic held a Grove Party in honor of the new pledges of each fraternity and sorority, and they also promoted various projects to raise funds for their permanent philanthropy, the Baddour Center for mildly retarded adults.

Interfraternity Council

The University of Mississippi Interfraternity Council is the central organization of the social fraternities on the Ole Miss campus. Composed of two representatives from every fraternity, the IFC works toward bettering relations among Greeks. The purpose of the organization is to advance the better interests of the fraternities in connection with the general welfare of the student body as a whole. Another aspect of the IFC is its authority to exercise governmental control over fraternity actions.

The three major yearly projects of the IFC are sponsoring Greek Week in the spring with Panhellenic, conducting Formal Fraternity Rush Week in the fall, and publishing the IFC Rush Book. The IFC also works with the Order of Omega and Panhellenic in having social functions and grants a scholarship to the IFC Campus Model Pledge amounting to one-half of his sophomore year in-state tuition.

Alpha Kappa Alpha

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, the first black Greek-letter sorority, was founded in 1908 at Howard University, Washington, D.C. The purpose for organizing the sorority was "to cultivate and encourage high scholastic and ethical standards, improve the social status of the race, promote unity and friendship among college women, and keep alive within the alumnae an interest in college life and progressive movements emanating therefrom." The Theta Psi chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha was the first black sorority founded at the University of Mississippi in 1974. Since its beginning, the women of the Theta Psi chapter have maintained a distinguished record of achievement.

In 1865, three Confederate soldiers tried to bring a divided nation together by forming a new fraternity, Alpha Tau Omega. The Mississippi Delta Psi chapter of ATO was founded at Ole Miss in February of 1927. Since that founding, the men of ATO have strived to uphold the lofty ideals of their founders by maintaining leadership in all areas on campus — academic, athletic, political, and social. Members are involved in the IFC, Order of Omega, Phi Eta Sigma, Alpha Lambda Delta, and ODK. These factors add up to a successful and accomplished fraternity, the ATOs.

Chi Psi Fraternity was founded at Union College in Schenectady, New York, on May 20, 1841. It was the eighth fraternity in the country. Chi Psi was the first fraternity to have a fraternity house; it was a log cabin at the University of Michigan that was built in 1846.

Alpha Gamma of Chi Psi was established on September 27, 1858, at the University of Mississippi. It was the third fraternity established at Ole Miss before the Civil War. Chi Psi flourished at Ole Miss until anti-fraternity legislation was passed by the state legislature. Former Chancellor Robert Furwell Fulton, for whom Fulton Chapel was named, was an early Chi Psi at Ole Miss.

Chi Psi was re-established at the University on March 21, 1970. They are very proud of our continuous growth and progress over the past twelve years on the Ole Miss campus.

Delta Sigma Theta

In the creation of Delta Sigma Theta in 1913 at Howard University, the founders envisioned an organization of college women pledged to serious endeavor and community service. These youthful students demonstrated a vital concern for social welfare, academic excellence, and cultural enrichment, de-emphasizing the social side of sorority life. Their ideas of scholarship and service have withstood the test of time, and today Delta Sigma Theta is a public service organization dedicated to a program of sharing membership skills and organizational service in the public interest. In 1930 Delta Sigma Theta was incorporated. Today there are over 100,000 members and over 685 chapters across the nation and in the Republics of Haiti, Liberia, the Virgin Islands, West Germany, and the Bahamas.

Phi Mu

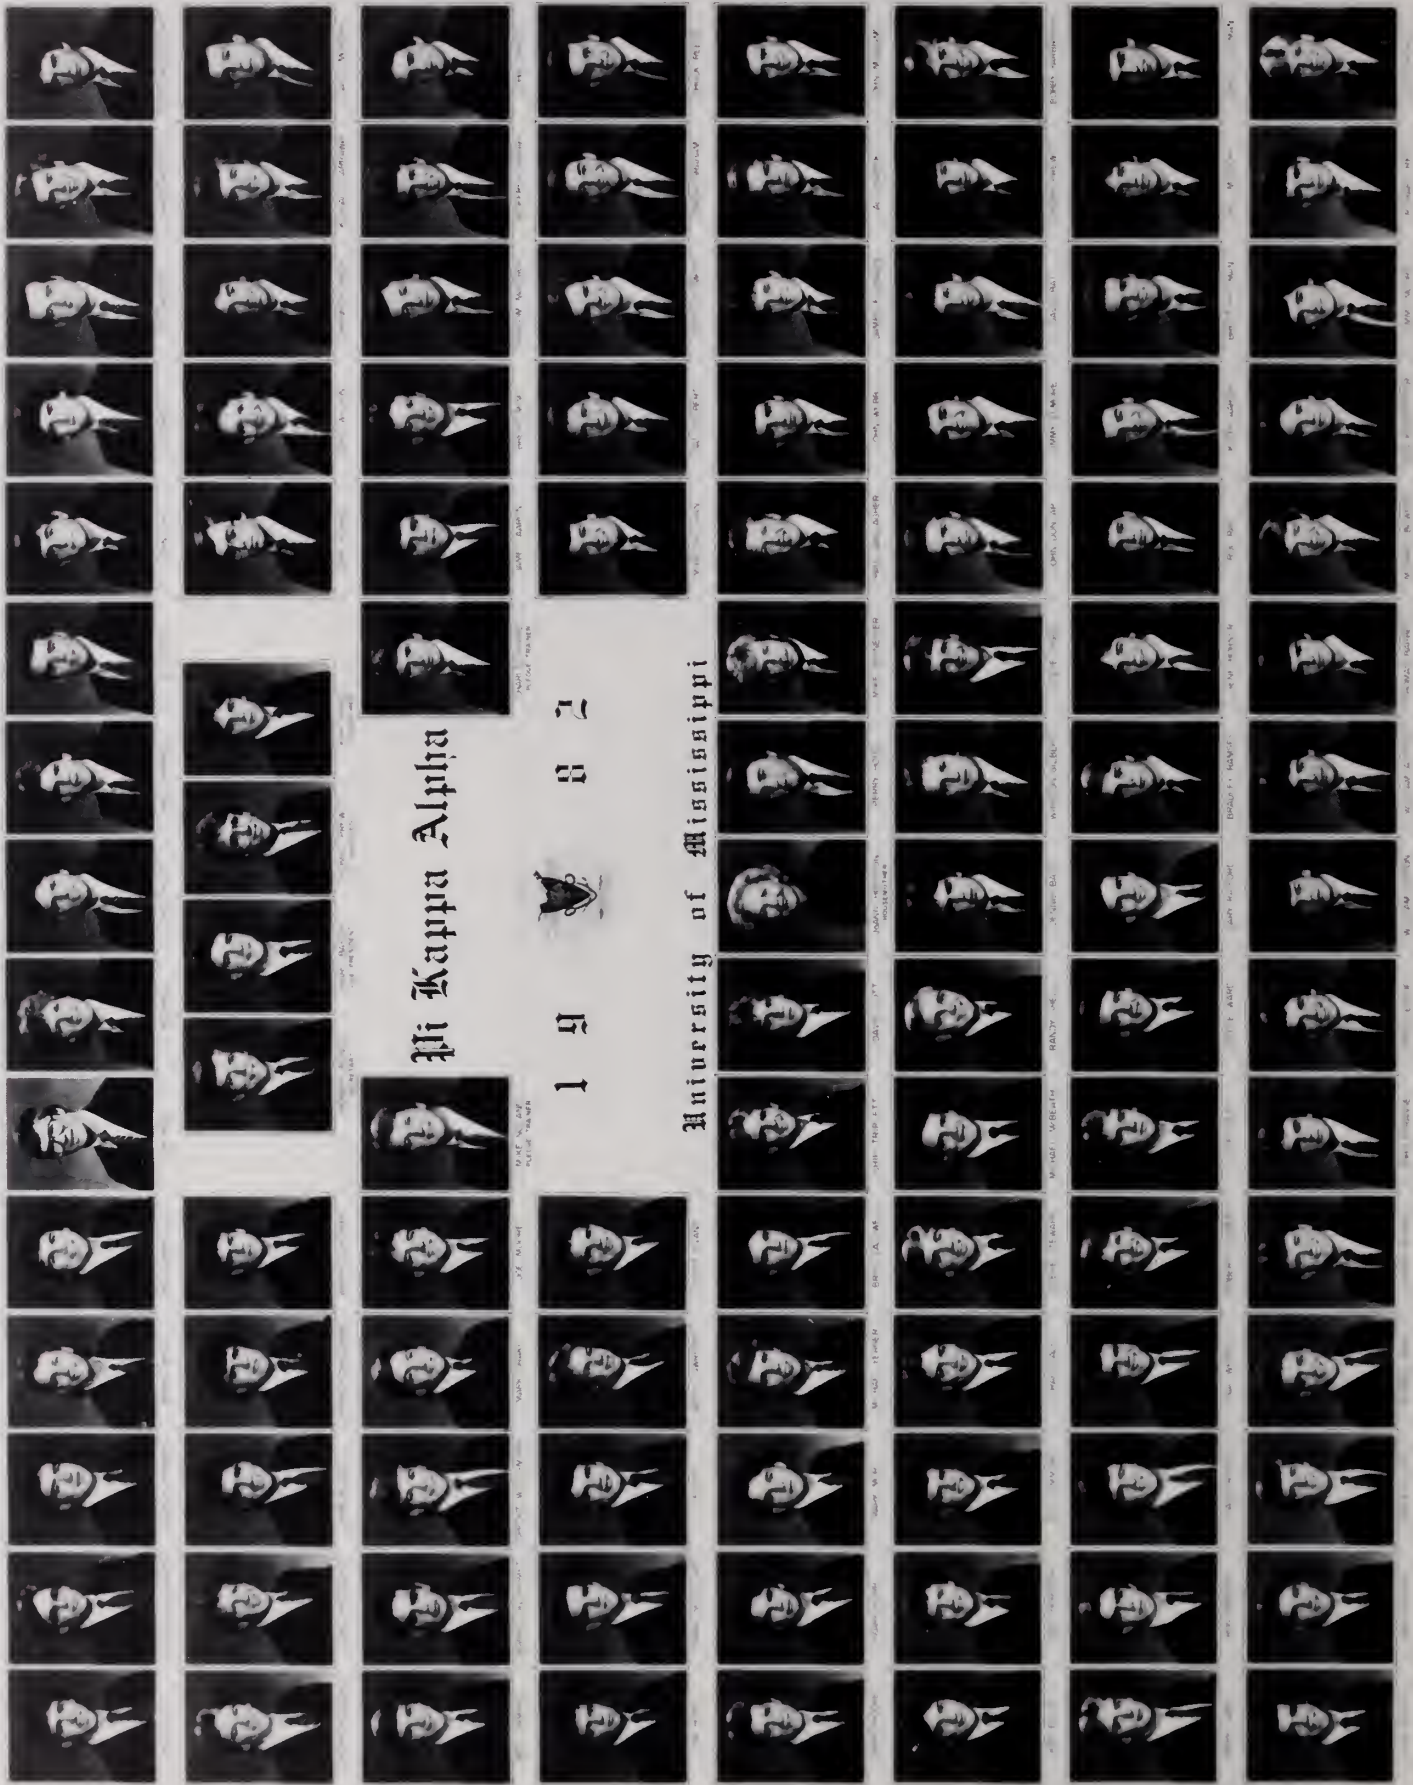

Phi Mu was founded at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia, on March 4, 1852. The Ladybugs established residence at Ole Miss in 1925 with the Alpha Delta chapter. With their campus involvement in different organizations and honoraries, the Phi Mus have since built a strong sisterhood at Ole Miss. They take part in the Committees of 82 and 100, the Rebel Recruiters, and they have memberships in such honoraries as Rho Lambda and Mortar Board. The colors of rose and white, the rose carnation, and the ideals of Southern womanhood characterize the Phi Mu Ladies at Ole Miss.

Pi Beta Phi

Pi Beta Phi, the oldest secret society for women, was founded at Monmouth College in Illinois. Chartered at Ole Miss in 1961, the Pi Beta Phis are identified by the white carnation, the angel, and the arrow. The Pi Phi house was modeled after the Arrowmont, the Pi Phi craft school in Gatlinburg, Tennessee, and this house is actually shaped like an arrow. The Pi Phis at Ole Miss have participated in numerous campus activities such as Committee of 82, Rebel Recruiters, Mortar Board, and ODK. Represented on the Modeling Board and the Homecoming Court, the Pi Beta Phis take pride in their continuing success at Ole Miss.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Sweetheart — Lib Wight

Pi Kappa Alpha was founded in 1968 and came to the Ole Miss campus in 1977. Members of Pi Kappa Alpha always strive to maintain the lofty ideals which prompted their fraternity's establishment and which have characterized their administration for over a century. The Pikes are especially proud of their accomplishments in political and campus affairs, their athletic progress, and their constant quest for high scholastic achievement. With participants in the Senate, Committee of 100, Ambassadors, and numerous honoraries, the Pikes take part in all areas of Ole Miss life.

Σ Alpha Epsilon

Sweetheart — Nancy Matthews

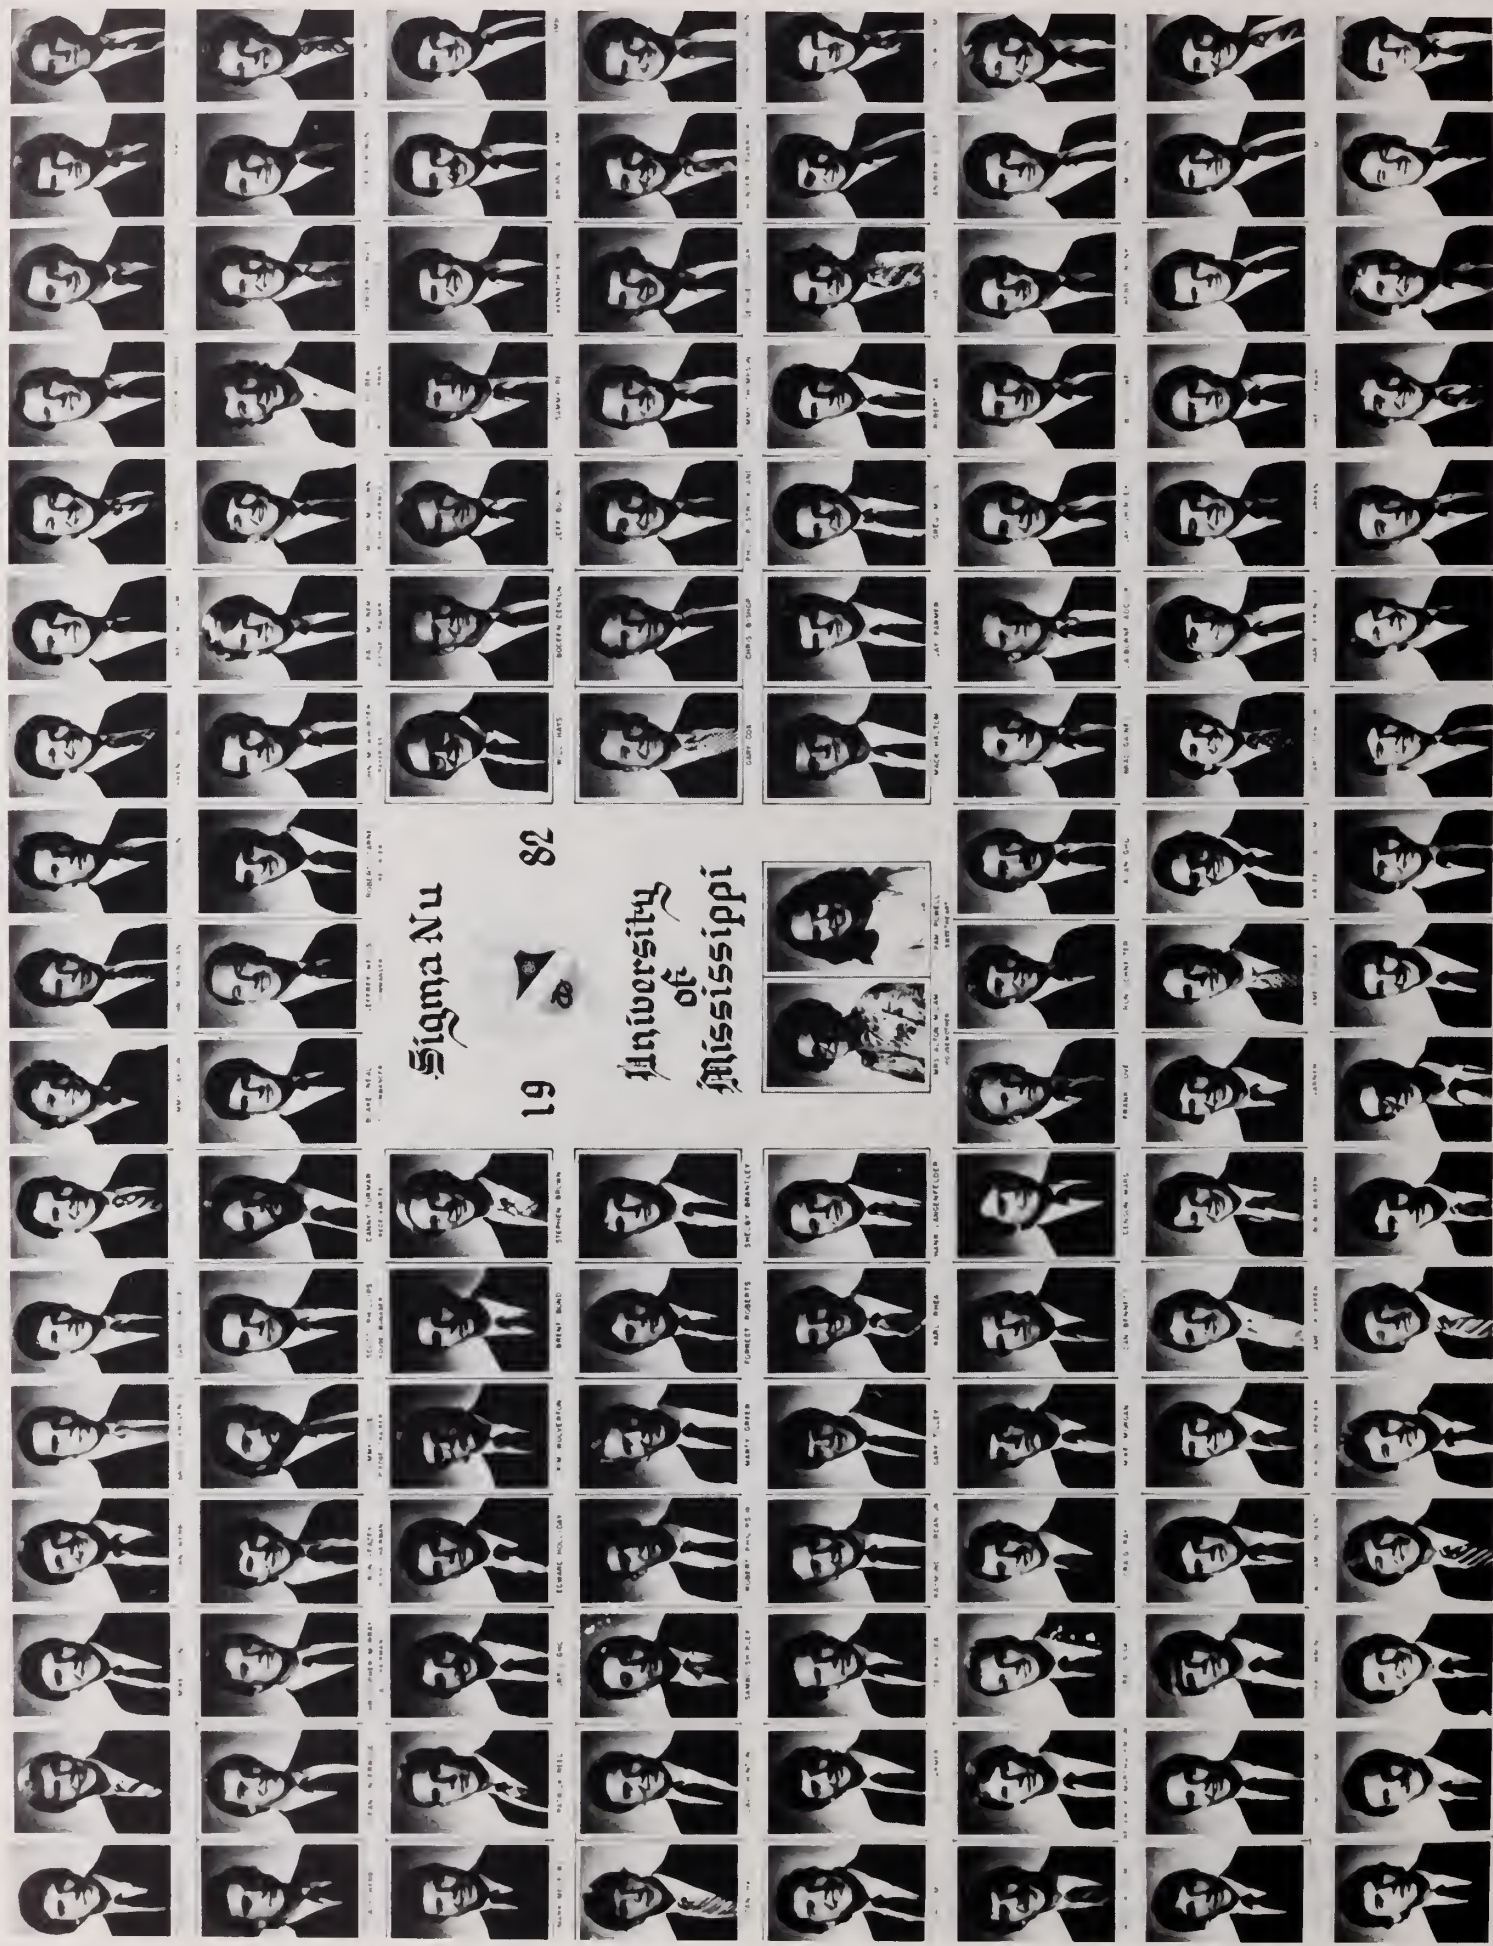

Founded March 9, 1856, at the University of Alabama, Sigma Alpha Epsilon claims the honor of being one of the first fraternities founded in the South. Mississippi Gamma chapter was established at Ole Miss in 1866, and since that time the SAEs have contributed to different areas of campus life. Members of SAE are active in College Republicans, Committees of 100 and 82, Ambassadors, and different ASB Committees. Represented on the Rebel football, baseball, and golf teams, the SAEt have continued in the proud heritage that has persisted over 115 years of existence.

Sigma Chi

Since its founding on the Ole Miss campus on October 10, 1887, Eta chapter has been regarded as one of the best chapters in the Sigma Chi fraternity. One reason for their success is the pursuit by its members of the three great aims of the fraternity — friendship, justice, and learning. Sigma Chi is involved in every facet of college and community life. Its members belong to Lambda Sigma, Order of Omega, ODK, and many other honoraries and are leaders in campus politics, Committees of 100 and 82, and the Union Program Council. The ability of the Sigma Chis to maintain their high standards is a monument to their success and achievements.

Sigma Nu

The University's Sigma Nu chapter, Epsilon Xi, was founded in 1927. While participating in all aspects of campus life, Sigma Nu has instilled great degrees of character and responsibility in her men. The scholars, athletes, and leaders that make up Sigma Nu have continually enriched overall campus life at the University. Members are involved in ODK, the Order of Omega, Lambda Sigma, and student government to name a few organizations. All of these activities give Sigma Nu a well-earned place of distinction.

Sweetheart — Mary Ann Davis

Sigma Pi, a national fraternity which stands for character, loyalty, scholarship, and the individual, was founded in 1897 at Vincennes University in Vincennes, Indiana. The Sigma Pi badge, symbolic in all respects, is a Greek cross of gold, bearing a raised oval of blue enamel with an emerald at its center between the Greek letters Sigma and Pi. The arms of the badge bear a scroll, a balance, a wreath, and ten stars arranged in a triangle. With the pride of this badge, the Sigma PIs, after a brief absence from the University campus, have reestablished themselves into the Greek system at Ole Miss.

Zeta Beta Tau

Sweetheart — Marsha Brown

The men of Zeta Beta Tau are involved in various activities on the Ole Miss campus. Members participate in Phi Beta Lambda, Phi Kappa Phi, Young Republicans, and the Pre-Law Society. While Zeta Beta Tau is represented in the University Band and Chorus, ZBTs also work in the publication of the Daily Mississippian and the OLE MISS Yearbook. With involvement in student government and ROTC, the Zeta Beta Taus contribute to many different phases of Ole Miss life.

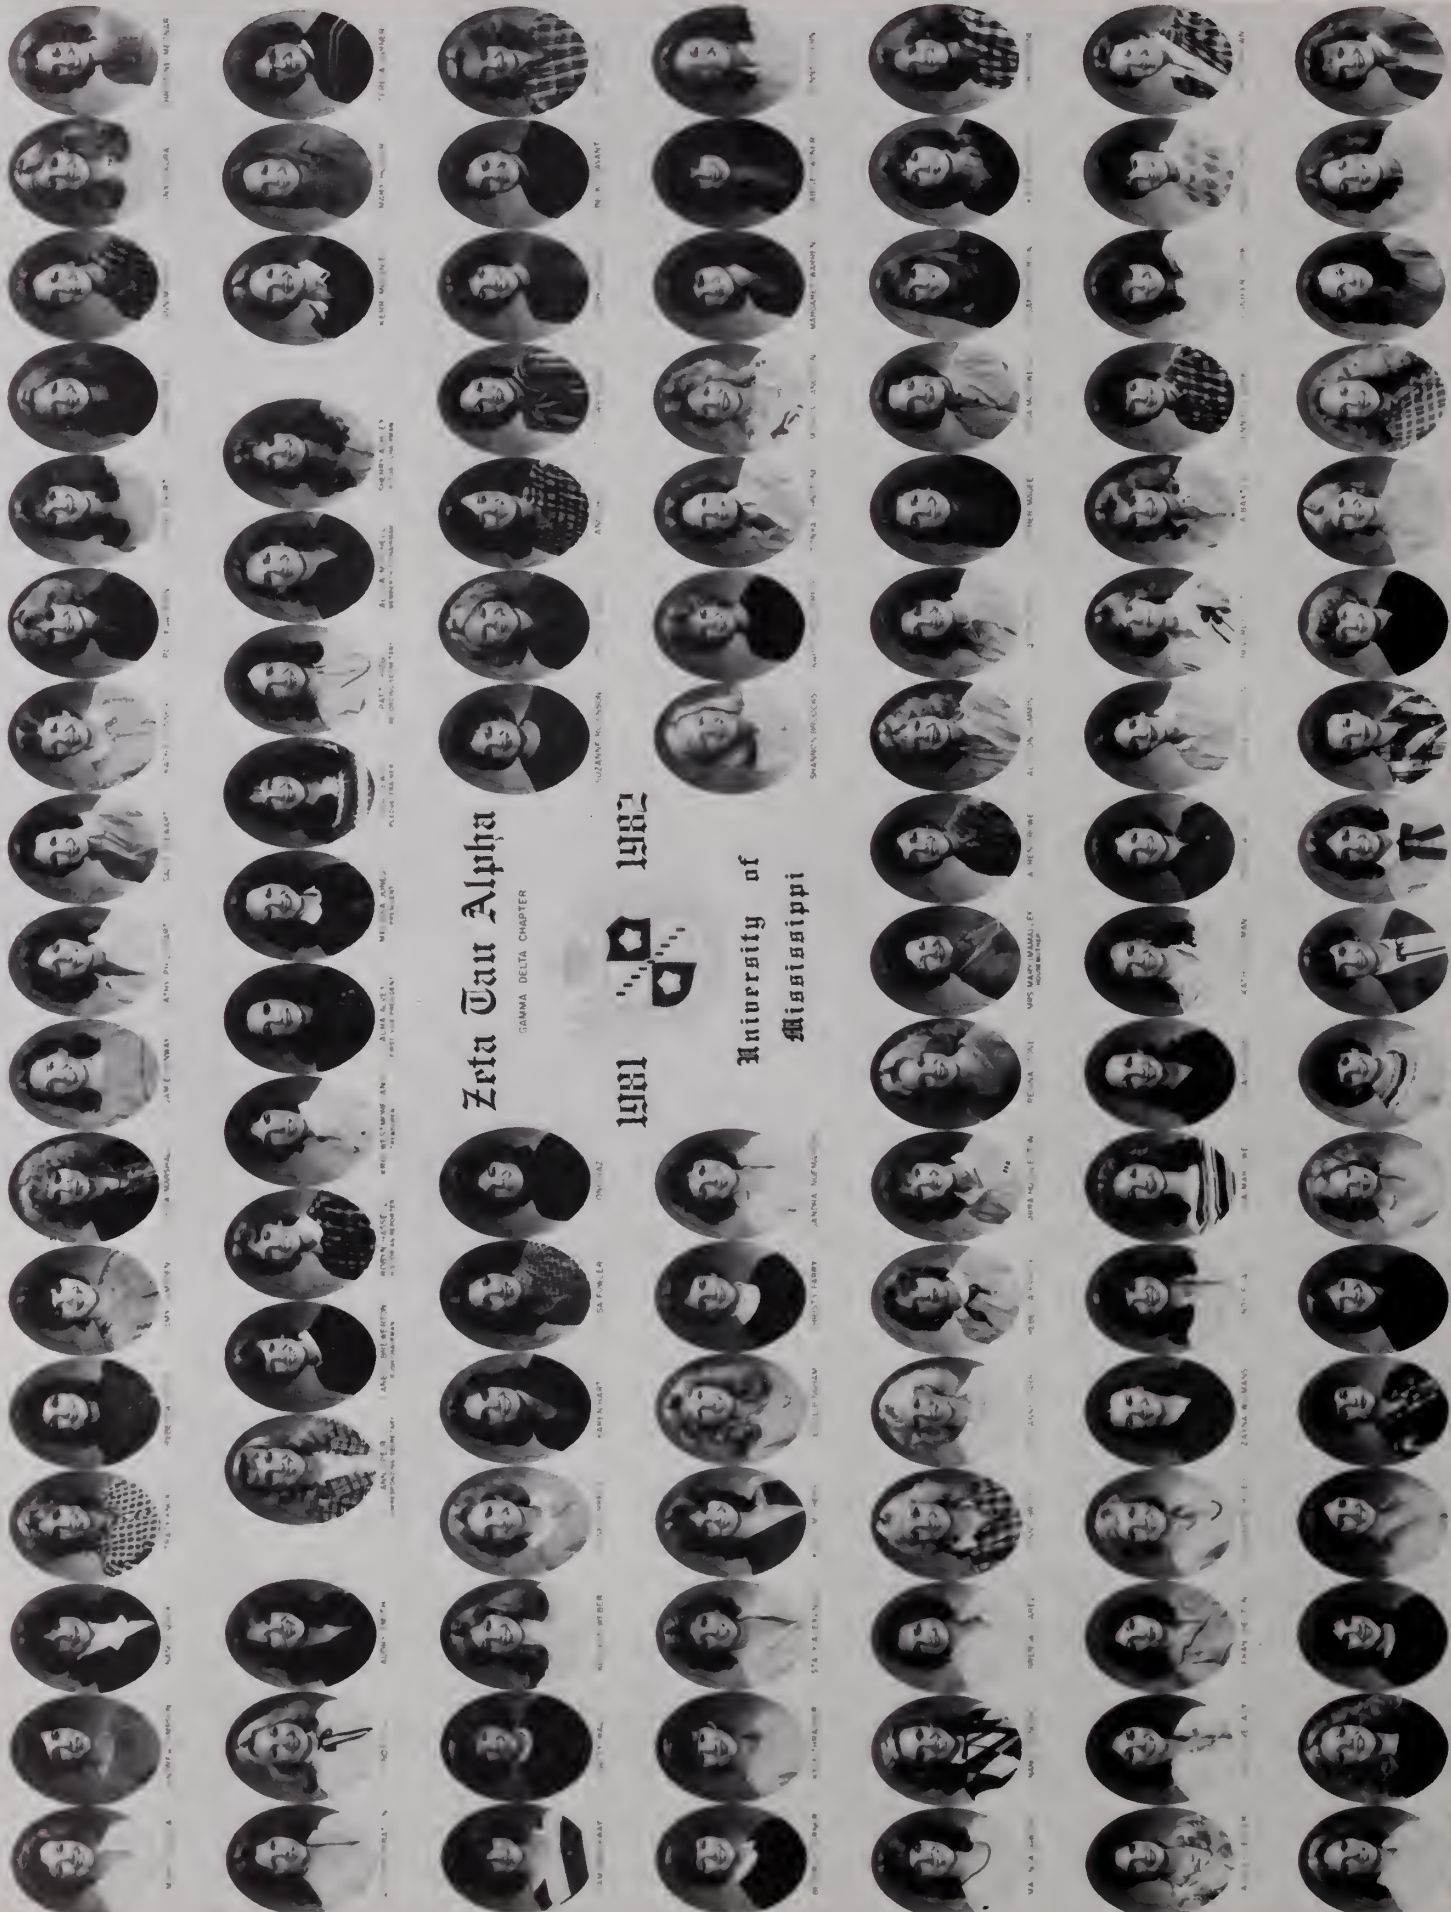

First Row: Luretha Jones, Secretary; Nellie Pettis, President; Carolyn Evans, Vice President; Betty Balkfour. Second Row: Loretta Jones, Annette Powers, Valerie Polk, Agnania Carter, Deborah Powers.

Zeta Phi Beta

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority was founded at Howard University on January 16, 1920. The Tau Eta chapter was chartered on the Ole Miss campus in 1976, bringing its white rose and colors of blue and white with it. The objectives of finer womanhood, sisterly love, and scholarship have brought together women who have similar tastes and aspirations for the highest attainments. The Zetas have been active in many social activities on campus as well as community service activities.

The Zetas placed first in the Annual Black History Greek Show in 1981. With honors, prestige, and sisterly love, it is easy to see why each young lady who wears the shield has a heritage of lifelong privileges and friendship.

GAMMA DELTA CHAPTER

University of Mississippi

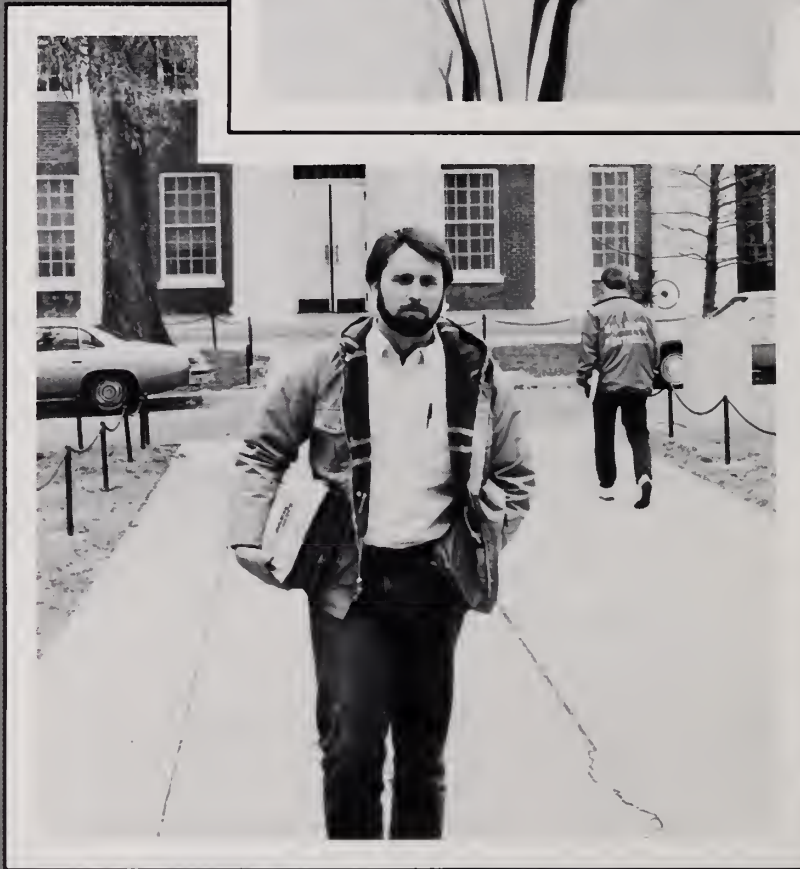

Zeta Tau Alpha

Zeta Tau Alpha was founded at Longwood College in Farmville, Virginia, on October 15, 1898. The sorority was chartered on the Ole Miss campus in 1939, bringing with her the white violet and the colors of steel gray and turquoise blue.

Zetas have been involved in all phases of campus life: Rho Lambda, The Ole Miss Marching Band, Committee of 100, and the Daily Mississippian. Many Zetas are involved in honoraries such as Alpha Lambda Delta, Phi Kappa Phi, and others. Zetas also have sisters in Rebel Recruiters, Lady Rebel M-Club, and Ambassadors.

The Zetas at Ole Miss have contributed to Muscular Dystrophy, Cystic Fibrosis, the Baddour Center, and with the help of the "Zeta Man" calendar, to the Association of Retarded Citizens.

Ole Miss is its own world, keeping its ties firm with the rest of the world while maintaining its pride, tradition, and character.

Here, in the gentle hills of Northeast Mississippi, the South regained her pride, preserved her character and tradition, and worked for her future. Although perhaps never gaining nationwide or international acknowledgement our university continued to attract outstanding faculty members, who, in turn, shared their learning, their common sense and their advice with students. Seeking not to disillusion us, our teachers rather tried to prove to us that our dreams were possible if we wanted them badly enough and were willing to work for them.

Work meant either more studying, more practice or more experience, all of which we needed. Grades became more important as some of us hoped for scholarships or entrances into post-graduate programs. For the boy in the Old Gym shooting baskets each afternoon while he dreamed of a pro career; for the saxophone player in the Jazz Band thinking of striking off on his own after graduation, or the clothing design major sewing in the Home Ec building, practice rivaled classes in importance for the future. Our professors and advisors often became more than mere figureheads as we saw them as someone to look up to, someone who would always give us a straight answer, someone to listen to and someone to listen to us.

Although some people questioned the appropriateness of "Dixie", Rebel flags and the nickname "Rebels" for our growing Southern university, those symbols were an integral part of our culture. The haunting strains of "Dixie", played either slowly or quickly, were, in a sense, a call to action, but the call to action was not one involving arms as during the Civil War, but rather a call to show our support for our beloved Ole Miss. The red, white, and blue Rebel flags rippled through the air proudly when Carlos Clark scored yet another basket; Sean Tuohy aided in another assist, or when John Fourcade's strong arm set off a perfect pass to Buford McGee. With each addition to the University's winning record in sports and academics, we, the students and strength of Ole Miss, showed anyone who cared to look that the South would not stay the brunt of jokes forever. Not only would we compete, but we would succeed.

Despite the tranquility of the Grove, the friendliness of students and faculty, and the ease of getting around campus, Ole Miss had its flaws as we did. In an ever-increasingly computerized society, Ole Miss students felt the impact computers had on them each time they tried to run a Fortran program through the computer only to have the computer reject it. Computers were used constantly in registration and drop-add, and the lines of students with tired, sore feet were evidence that the computers were not always running smoothly.

We alternated from feelings of total disbelief, utter confusion, anger and absolute amazement at many of the University's policies and practices. On topics ranging from the UPD's issuance of parking tickets at 4:30 a.m. on Fraternity Row in the summer to paperwork required by the financial aid office, to the confusion and red tape involved with campaigns and elections, and the decision this year to send midtern grades to parents only, student expressed their view.

Many other topics caused similiar reactions. Discussions of the Athletic Department, the coaching staff, ticket policy, the cost of textbooks, the re-sale value of textbooks, the pre-registration process and refrigerator rentals were something we all had had experience with some time during our years here, and we all had our share of opinions on the matters.

Our world here was a world of many contrasts; a world whose population came from almost every state and corner of the globe. A world in which students with arms full of books and minds full of technical problems and solutions reminiscent of bygone eras. Ours was a world where beauty queens dressed in sweat suits and visors for early morning classes, and debutantes donned outlandish costumes for swaps. At Ole Miss, the chatter of teeth was drowned out by blaring radios as coeds began work on their ever darkening tans as early as February.

Ole Miss is more than just a nickname for a great

Southern university,

it is us!

In addition to being known throughout the Southeastern Conference for its athletics and scholarship, Ole Miss is known as the party school. Not as just any party school, but "the" party school.

Reasons were easy to come by if a student felt a need to justify his busy social life. A passing grade, a date, a check from home, or just a desire to do something out of the ordinary were all causes for celebrations. Dorm and floor popcorn and ice cream parties not only broke into an evening's plan for studying and homework, but were also the break needed from studying and homework.

Our friendships grow strong . . .

Perhaps parties at Ole Miss are different from those elsewhere because the key ingredient to the uniqueness here is us. Whether we congregate with friends at the Warehouse, Gin or Abbey, have a picnic at Sardis, or make a contest out of seeing how many Ole Miss cars we can pass between here and Memphis or New Orleans before the highway patrol catches up with us, our true, fun-loving nature always showed through. Bartenders on Bourbon Street, waitresses in Swensons, and gas station attendants along I-55 all recognized us as old friends.

Interwoven among classic old buildings on campus were new, and the result was a successful example of best of both worlds. Although the new buildings, which were columnless and virtually windowless, seemed a bit out of place with buildings dating back to the Civil War, new additions such as the chemistry building and the new athletic complex blended well with magnolia leaves and an atmosphere of tradition.

Tradition played a major role in molding our characters as we followed our brothers' and sisters', our parents' and often our grandparents' history of attending Ole Miss.

Located in a small traditional town, the university offered students living off campus their choices of modern townhouse-style apartments or often an apartment in one of Oxford's historical old homes close to the Square. The Square was the center of tradition in Oxford. Although farmers no longer pull their produce trucks on the courthouse lawn, tailgates sticking out into traffic, old weathered men chewing tobacco still meet on the courthouse benches for a day of tale-swapping. Many of the buildings looking out at the Square are much the same as they were when they were built, such as hardware stores where clerks ring up purchases on ancient cash registers, a shoe shop furnished with the old shoe polishing benches, and a drug store owned by the mayor of Oxford where politicians and old timers gather in a coffee shop-style nook in the back of the store to catch up on news.

And in spring, Oxford takes a trip to the past during the annual pilgrimage held in April. Gracious antebellum homes, sparkling with fresh coats of paint and recently waxed heart pine floors are opened for tours guided by girls costumed in bell-shaped ruffled hoop skirts.

Coors beer came to Mississippi this year, but the traditional regulations enforced in Oxford prohibit selling chilled beer. The regulation was a good excuse for students to take a road trip to the county line for cold beer.

... but even if we lose track of each other, we'll never lose our memories of our first day of classes, our first roommate, and the many other friendships we collected during our years here.

Somehow we managed to fit it all in the car. High school mementos, snapshots of friends, family and pets, favorite record albums and other necessities were stacked, shuffled and shifted around to make room for our bulging suitcases and racks of clothes.

We thought a lot about the next four years of our lives as we drove to what would become our new home, Ole Miss, The University of Mississippi. We wondered how we'd be able to share one of those tiny dorm rooms with someone else. If we didn't know our roommate, we wondered what the person (whom we would confide in, share our clothes, books, friendship and loneliness with) would be like. We wondered about classes and grades; would we make good grades, or simply grades that were good enough. Would we fit in? Would we find friends?

Friends were the thing we worried most about. How would we be able to find others with similar personalities, hobbies, likes, and dislikes; others who we would confide in, laugh with, pull pranks on, and go places with when there were 9,600 students at Ole Miss.

The first bonds of friendship began to take form as we put our questions aside to devote our attention to unpacking the car. We laughed as others struggled as hard as we did to keep from dropping hangers of clothes, suitcases, boxes and pillows. Together we laughed and grumbled about how heavy everything seemed to be, and with each bit of laughter, some of our worries slipped away. Maybe we wouldn't meet everybody on campus, but we'd already made several new friends just by laughing at the struggles to move in.

If we would have admitted it, each of us was a bit apprehensive about the first day of classes. Many of the classes on our schedule were different from that of any of our friends, and we nostalgically wished only for a minute that we were walking down the well-known halls of our high school.

But, once in the classroom, we struck up conversations with those around us, asking the basics, "Where are you from? What are you majoring in? What year are you? and What else are you taking?" Those four questions opened up friendships that lasted throughout our first semester, and often through our college years.

Making friends, we discovered, was not really that much to worry about, but by the time we realized this, it was time for midterm exams and studying. Late night trips to Baskin-Robbins, Mr. Quik, the Hoka, local bars and the arcades with friends had to be delayed or shortened so we could attempt to study despite the distractions of the dorm, library, telephone and knocks at the door.

Over Christmas vacation we looked back over our first semester at Ole Miss, confident that the next semester would bring us together with many more new friends. But, friendship held sadness occasionally as we remembered people we had lost touch with, those who were moving into a different dorm, those transferring to another university, dropping out of school, graduating, getting married or changing majors. And, although we promised each we would keep in touch, we weren't able to.

It wasn't that we didn't try as juniors and seniors to find our first semester roommate, and the friend whose history notes and grades were always better than ours. We even had come to miss the pesky neighbor who was always borrowing things and coming by at the wrong time, but we'd even lost track of where the neighbor now lived.

In the end, friendships were the things we remembered long after we sold all our books back to the bookstore and threw out old notebooks. After graduation, we'd scan faces in the crowd on return trips for football games, searching for a familiar dimpled smile or wink, and then we'd laugh again, as we did when we met, trading bad jokes with college memories, reliving events from our college years to the present in a matter of minutes. Regardless of the number of years it had been since we saw each other.

Everything we do, learn, become, and dream shows our involvement with our university.

New Ole Miss students soon found that the word "time" took on a new meaning. No longer did "time" simply refer to the hour of the day, but rather to how many things could be fitted into each hour of the day.

With Ole Miss' wide selection of things to fill the hours, students often found themselves having to make the difficult decision between a degree in an academic field or a degree in extracurricular activities.

For politically-minded students, Ole Miss offered both introductory and advanced courses in elections each fall and spring. The fall semester opened up with campaigns for ASB Senate positions, and almost immediately afterward campaigns for Homecoming Queen, Favorites, Miss Ole Miss and Colonel Reb got under way. Through these campaigns, either as a campaigner or campaign worker, Ole Miss students learned how many doors there were in each dorm as they tried to meet as many voters as possible, learned firsthand how signing groups were organized, how to budget expenses, how to hand out flyers and have the flyers stay up, and how long they could wear the same nametag before it became hopelessly bent. Spring elections offered advanced courses in political campaigns with ASB officer elections, AWS elections, cheerleader elections and elections for the editorship of both the DAILY MISSISSIPPIAN, and the OLE MISS. Instead of being judged on a pass-fail basis, students were judged on the successfulness of their campaigns.

Students managing to stay out of the political scene were not at a loss for things to do however. Those interested in committee work soon found their niche through AWS, ASB and UPC appointments. Committees aimed at meeting all of the students' needs, from the AWS's women-oriented programming committees to ASB refrigerator rentals and concert commission and the UPC's fine arts and films committees, to name just a few.

But if committee work was not what a student was interested in, Ole Miss also offered membership in numerous honorary societies. Ole Miss promoted the armed forces through such organizations as Arnold Air Society, Angel Flight, ROTC and ROTC sponsors.

International students gained recognition through the International Coffee House and other cultural programs sponsored by the different organizations including the International Students Association.

Sports enthusiasts found outlets through the intramural program which consisted of intramural baseball, basketball, football and water polo. Rugby fans formed a UM Rugby team, and karate experts joined the Isshinryu Karate Club. Ole Miss swimmers made quite a splash as the Ole Miss Aquatic Club participated in swimming and diving meets.

The university seemed to offer as many activities as it did classes. Performing arts students demonstrated their skills and talents not only through the Pride of the South Marching Band, the Jazz Band, and the Mississippians, but also through numerous choral groups. Drama students staged productions varying from comedies to tragedies, musicals and one-act studio plays.

Broadcasting, journalism, advertising and art students were welcomed by the campus television station, radio station, annual, newspaper and several Ole Miss magazines. And among the many other organizations Ole Miss students had their choice of were recruitment organizations aimed at prospective students and prospective athletes, a campus lobbying organization and an interdenominational faith organization.

Ole Miss students also had the chance to participate in or coordinate numerous beauty pageants such as the Miss University, Parade of Beauties and Miss Ebony pageants. Those aiming for careers in fashion and modeling soon became involved in the UM Modeling Board, Ebony Elegance and the Best Dressed Pageant.

The list of organizations and groups open to Ole Miss students is far from complete. Fraternities and sororities each had their own governing councils and honoraries, in addition to each Greek organization's schedule of programs and committees.

Running from classes to dorm meetings, floor meetings, pledge meetings, honorary meetings, campaign meetings and still more committee meetings, Ole Miss students somehow managed to find a way to eat, sleep, and occasionally study and do homework. Time was something everyone wanted more of, but even with the extra time, Ole Miss students only found themselves with more things to get involved with.

Our involvement,
friendships and excitement
form Ole Miss' atmosphere.

Regardless of the tough facade Ole Miss students projected, subtle clues always gave them away through a wink or slowly spreading smile. There was just no way to get around it; Ole Miss, its students, its sports events, parties and activities each contributed to make our years at Ole Miss full of excitement.

From the first time students unpacked suitcases in dark dorm rooms to the time when all the junk accumulated over four years was stuffed into boxes and suit cases and the student paused for one final look at his dorm room, each student was caught up in the snare of fun and interesting things that were all an intricate part of Ole Miss.

Football weekends became series of three-day weekends. Regardless of the location of the game, at home, Jackson, New Orleans, or Memphis, whether it rained or was dreadfully hot, football weekedns were the reason behind Friday's high absenteeism and Monday's sleepy faces. Home football games caused Fraternity Row to be transformed into a gigantic set for the largest "Battle of the Bands" as each fraternity's favorite band played in the front yard.

In addition to providing many students with quick ulcers, elections at Ole Miss contributed greatly to feelings of excitement. A zealous campaign worker or campaigner's energy flowed out to others until the entire campus buzzed about the upcoming elections. The only thing that could match the candidate's awe at being greeted by throngs of students at dorm rallies was the nervousness during the final minutes of vote tallying before the announcement of the winner.

The Greek system, with its fall and open Rush, contributed to a student's excitement through its many social functions and pledge programs. For the sorority pledge leading an entire fraternity in chants of Hotty Toddy or singing Dixie in front of athletes at Vaught Hall, the feeling was anything but boredom. Social chairman of each Greek organization did their best to play a year full of fraternity-sorority swaps guaranteed to be enjoyable.

We love its parties and its people . . .

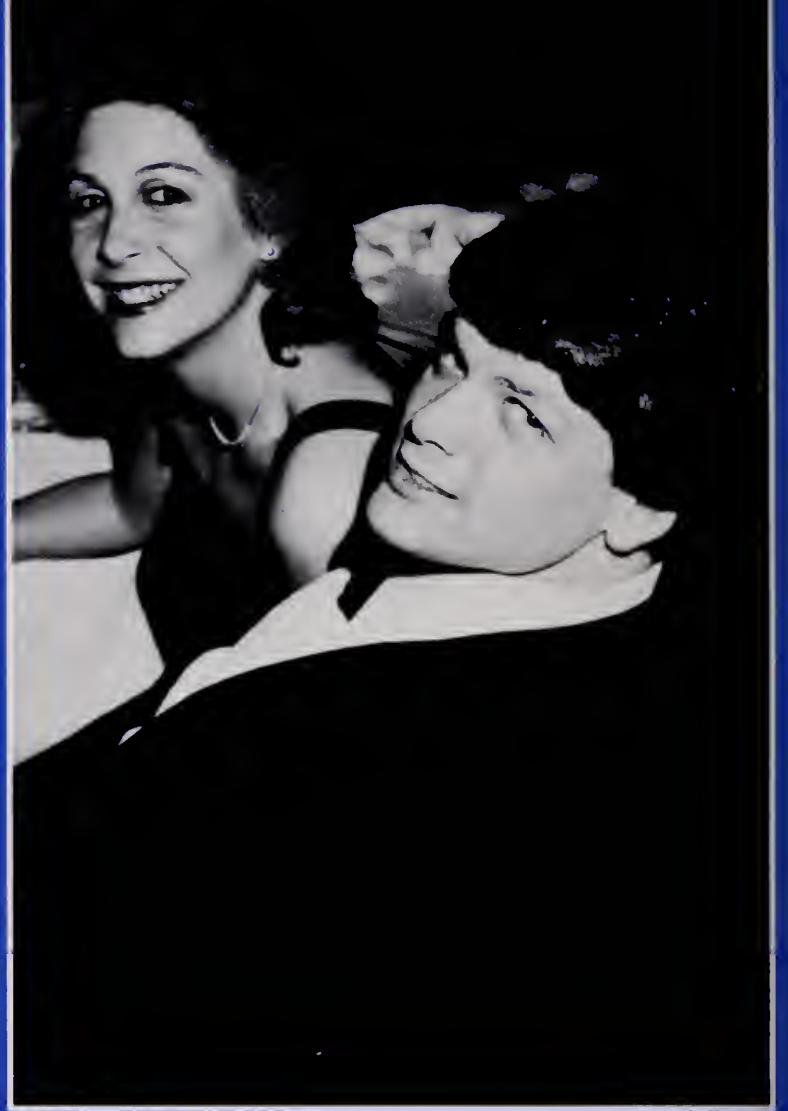

One thing guaranteed for excitement every time was a blind date. No one ever is able to figure out the trick to blind dates, but the anticipation of the date itself is always exciting.

Not all exciting things are enjoyable, however, unfortunate as it seems. Midterm grades, final exams, and research papers all were a part of Ole Miss, and caused quite a reaction among students, but none of these excitement – causing things were fun. Students tried to figure out ingenious ways to keep parents from getting midterm grades, or conning friends or roommates into typing the papers due the following day. Pounding hearts told students that thinking up and telling unique reasons to professors as explanations for missing class, exams or not turning in homework was indeed an “exciting” event, but not one students looked forward to.

Greetings from the UPD officers in the form of green ticket slips stuck under car windshields for parking violations were definitely unwanted by the average Ole Miss student, but, a $300 bill for a semester’s parking violations sure was the cause for parents’ amazed reactions. For the student stranded at Ole Miss without a car for the first time, survival was indeed challenging, but not fun.

Excitement came in many disguises to the Ole Miss students. Whether the excitement was due to an “A” or a passing grade, to a friend’s success in elections, to dates, swaps, formals, concerts or traditional Dixie Week festivities Ole Miss students had no defense against the contagious atmosphere of excitement.

... and, regardless of our moods and memories, we will always come back to Ole Miss because we are Ole Miss and we can never leave that part of ourselves behind.

As starry-eyed high school seniors, we thought about college and decided that Ole Miss was the place for us. The thought of four years of classes was secondary to the anticipation and excitement of the fun and friendships we would experience during our college days. As freshmen we realized the vast opportunities available to us and were eager to make our mark on the world. Our goals and dreams seemed only a stepping stone away. However, we saw our youthful confidence dwindle as we realized that our goals and dreams would be more difficult to attain than we had ever before believed. No longer were we the center of everyone's attention. Our parents called periodically, but they weren't around to tell us we should buckle down and study, that we were staying out entirely too late or we had been cutting too many classes. Now, we were on our own and would have to work for the recognition we sought.

Having a year or two of college experience behind us, we found ourselves torn between clinging to our youthfulness and focusing on our futures. Regardless of which direction we chose, graduation seemed an eternity away.

Finally, our senior year was upon us, and we found ourselves reflecting on our college experiences. We spent hours simply reliving memories that snapshots, letters, and other odds and ends brought back. Ole Miss developed into more than just one big party or one dull learning experience. The friendships, involvement, and excitement helped us to find our own niche in the world. When we sit in the car, taking one last look at our dorm, the Union, the Grove, or the Lyceum, we know that our memories of Ole Miss will not fade. We will always have those special moments to cling to. We know that Ole Miss has become a part of us and we can not leave a part of ourselves behind, because WE ARE OLE MISS!

Editor's Closing

After reading what seems to be hundreds of Editor's Closings I am now faced with having to write my own. There is no adequate way to describe my term to serve as Editor-in-Chief of the OLE MISS. When I ran for the position, I realized the great challenge that lay before me. The OLE MISS has an outstanding and unparalleled reputation as being one of the finest yearbooks published. To uphold that reputation, I knew that my senior year would be primarily devoted to the task of producing the OLE MISS. It was a challenge that I gladly accepted since the University of Mississippi has been an institution that I have admired, loved, and cheered for since I was big enough to wave a Rebel flag. For me, it has been a rewarding year. One that has taxed not only my editorial, administrative, and creative skills but my patience and tolerance as well.

However, the 1982 OLE MISS was not produced by a one-man team. It was the result of the combined efforts of staff members, photographers, and copy editors who drew and redrew layouts, printed and reprinted pictures, and wrote and rewrote copy. I thank them all for their diligent work and their professional attitudes.

Undoubtedly though, the most thanks should be given to Bubba Morgan, my assistant editor. Through every phase of the '82 OLE MISS he was by my side to give me support, direction, and criticism. I must also convey my appreciation to my executive secretary and good friend Sally Crutcher for a job well done. Her office skills, good natured personality, and uncanny ability to find anything under the hopeless rubble known as the editor's desk proved to be invaluable. Let me also commend my copy editor Lauren Lexa whose writing ability was surpassed only by her enthusiasm.

Recognition must also be given to Mrs. Frances Smith. Mrs. Smith proved not only to manage the administrative and financial aspects of the yearbook with ease, but was also a vital source of advice during times of crisis. Her sincere interest in the '82 OLE MISS is much appreciated.

Appreciation must also be expressed to Mr. Frank E. Everett, Jr. for his permission to reprint parts of a speech he delivered entitled "Ole Miss"; to the following for their contributions to the 1982 OLE MISS: Kay Wiles, John Dowdle, Mary Elizabeth Partin, Amy Howard, Buster Turner and Mr. B. A. Towery; to Newell Turner for making a special effort to photograph my closing shots on Honey Island Plantation, home of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Spruill, my Grandparents, Patsy Minton, home outside of Belzoni; and to my parents for all of their guidance and support.

My time to serve as Editor-in-Chief is now growing short. I can't help but to feel a sigh of relief now that my job is complete. As I begin to visualize how my picture will look hanging with forty past editors, I wish John Hall much success with the 1983 OLE MISS.

FRILEY

*There is a valid distinction between
The University and Ole Miss even though the separate threads are closely interwoven*

The University is buildings, trees and people. Ole Miss is mood, emotion and personality. One is physical, and the other is spiritual. One is tangible, and the other intangible.

The University is respected, but Ole Miss is loved. The University gives a diploma and regretfully terminates tenure, but one never graduates from Ole Miss.
